Explanation— indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days the definition of a rainy day is when at least 1 0 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 30th January 1894

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A M, SATURDAY, THE 27TH OF JANUARY 1894

DURING almost the whole of the previous week a low pressure area had existed over North-Western India, and as always happens in such cases weather was disturbed, and in front of the disturbance temperature was higher than usual, while humidity was also rather high. These conditions had extended to Bengal, where temperature for the past week had been distinctly above the normal On the 21st or the first day of the week under review, the depression was commencing to move slowly in an easterly direction, temperature continued to rise rather rapidly in Bengal, and the disturbed weather reached South Bihar, and the districts of Shahabad, Saran, and Gaya reported local showers On the 22nd the depression from North-Western India was drifting slowly eastward across the Punjab and Rajputana towards the Kumaon Himalayas Pressure hence began to fall rather briskly in Bengal, while temperature increased rapidly, the mean temperature over the western half of the Province being from 5° to 8° and 9° in excess of the normal Winds also on this day became rather irregular in direction On the 23rd the low pressure area had broken up as a separate depression, but weather was still decidedly disturbed over a considerable part of the North-Western Provinces Pressure continued to fall briskly over Bengal, and temperature again rose by 1° or 2°, and a large number of the stations in the Province showed an excess in the mean temperature of about 7°, while again winds were decidedly variable On the 24th the low pressure area had quite broken up, though there was still a slight general fall of pressure The depression, however, having ceased to exist, the wave of cool dry air which always follows in the rear of a depression began to advance in a south-easterly direction, and on this date temperature began to fall generally in Bengal, the fall ranging from about 6° at such stations as Hazaribagh to very small amounts at the eastern stations, showing that the wave had on this day only established itself in the west of the Province Winds also on this day became more normal and were usually north-westerly On the 25th the wave of cold air made itself more strongly felt in Bengal, and there was again a fall of about 3° to 6° at the western stations, while on the 26th a fall in the mean temperature of about the same amount was reported over the whole Province, and the mean temperature on this day became in defect of the normal by about 2° to 3° over the greater part of Bengal, though slight excess amounts were still registered in Orissa On this date, however, there were again two barometric depressions appearing—one in Guzerat and one in Beluchistan, but they were still too far distant to affect Bengal On the 27th or the last day of the week pressure continued to fall slowly in the western parts of Bengal, but elsewhere it was increasing, while temperature was still low and was in defect generally by about 2° to 3°

In the first half of the week under review therefore Bengal was largely affected by the warm and rather moist wave of air in front of a barometric depression, but for the last three days the cool dry air in the rear of the depression established itself over the Province

Pressure—The mean pressure for the week has hence been decidedly below the normal, the defect generally equalling about 0 04 inch

Temperature—Owing to the comparatively high temperature of the first half of the week the mean temperature of the Province for the period has been 2 2° in excess The excess has been largest in the western districts, and in South Bihar it has equalled 3 2°

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the usual temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the Province are compared with the normal values for the same period The variations in different districts, it will be seen, have been rather large in both the night and day temperatures The minimum temperatures have, however, shown the largest excess amounts, and the general excess at the nine stations has equalled about 2 3°, while on the other hand the day or maximum temperatures have shown an excess of 1 9°.

Rainfall.—Rain has again been practically absent throughout the Province for the week A few showers have occurred in the Shahabad district, but even here the average fall has been less than a tenth of an inch In the Gaya and Saran districts and in the Darjeeling Hills a few local showers of no importance have also occurred, but with these exceptions the whole Province has been rainless

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 27th of January 1894 —

The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication Numerous contributors have however furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries

* Mean of 6 days

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage saturated [illegible] being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The normal mean rainfall are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the return sent in by the subdivisions station. A rainy day is one of district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations.

for the week ending Saturday, the 3rd of February 1894

Explanation — – indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days the definition of a rainy day is when at least 1 0 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 6th February 1894.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A M, SATURDAY, THE 3RD OF FEBRUARY 1894

DURING the second half of the previous week the cold-weather conditions in Bengal had been rather strongly developed, and weather was fine and settled over the whole province, but in North West India conditions had again become disturbed, and at the close of the week a distinct barometric depression was appearing on the north-western frontier On the 28th of January, or the first day of the week under review, a deep barometric depression existed over the North-West Himalayas The storm was of course too far distant to materially affect Bengal, but pressure was falling slowly over the province, while temperature was rising at practically all stations and humidity at a large number Indeed, on this day the mean temperature had become above the normal over the western half of the province, though it was in defect elsewhere On the 29th the storm over the North West Himalayas had to a great extent broken up, and, except for a further rather considerable increase of temperature, the changes in Bengal were unimportant On the 30th a brisk increase of pressure had occurred in Bengal and the distribution became fairly normal Temperature, however, had again increased, and the mean for the day was about 3° to 7° in excess On the 31st the increase of pressure continued, but a wave of cool air from North Western India commenced to flow across Bengal, and a fall of temperature of about 2° to 5° was recorded, and the excess in the temperature became small only On the 1st of February the fall of pressure recommenced, the fall extending over a considerable part of North-Western India, and being brisk in the Central Provinces A feeble form of barometric disturbance appears on this day to have been advancing across Central India in an easterly direction, and on the 2nd light showers began to be reported over a large part of Bihar On the 2nd also the barometer had fallen over the whole of the south western stations of the province including Chota Nagpur, while it was rising over the remainder Temperature also rose rapidly in connection with the slightly disturbed conditions On the 3rd, rain had again fallen over a large part of Bihar and over a considerable part of North Bengal, while at Gnatong a rather heavy snowstorm was reported The disturbance, however, had apparently again moved in an easterly direction and a moderate to rapid increase of pressure took place over Bengal in its rear, and pressure became rather largely in excess, while temperature was still high, and was above the normal by from about 1° to 2° at the western stations to about 6° to 7° in North-East Bengal

The most noticeable feature, therefore, in the week's review has been the occurrence of moderate rainfall in Bihar, and to a much smaller extent in North Bengal, but with the slightly disturbed conditions which gave the rainfall, temperature as usual has been rather high, particularly in the second half of the week

Pressure —The variations of pressure during the week have been rather considerable, but the mean for the period has been nearly normal, and the majority of stations show a variation from normal pressure of only a few thousandths of an inch

Temperature —The mean temperature of the province for the week has been 2 2° above the normal The excess has been largest in Chota Nagpur, where it has equalled 4 4°, and on the other hand it has been smallest in East Bengal, where it has equalled only 0 8°

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the usual temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period The variations in different districts, it will be seen, have been rather large in both the night and day temperatures The minimum temperatures have, however, shown the largest excess amounts, and the general excess at the nine stations has equalled about 1 6°, while on the other hand the day, or maximum, temperatures have shown an excess of 1 4°

Rainfall—Has occurred over the greater part of Bihar and in the districts in and near the hills of North Bengal In the districts of Darjeeling, Darbhanga, Muzaffarpur, Champaran, Saran, Shahabad, and Patna, the general falls of rain have equalled from an inch to half an inch, and in Purnea, Gaya, and Monghyr the falls have averaged from half to a quarter of an inch, while in Jalpaiguri and Kuch Bihar the falls have been from a tenth to a quarter of an inch

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 3rd of February 1894 —

The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground

3 The area under long lease will be limited to 50,000 acres, of which 32,000 acres will be in the Burdwan and 18,000 acres in the Hooghly district Long leases will, in all cases, commence from the 1st June in any year, and extend for seven years

Total	27,000	24,000	21,000

Water will not be admitted into any canal during any particular year until the water-rate of that year has been paid in full into the Government Treasury, either at Gopalganj or Chapra An application for a lease for a term of three years must be made in the form of Appendix II

9 The lessee of any canal shall grant a written permit to any person to whom he may have sold water under Rule 8 (ii) or (iii), and shall send a copy of the permit to the Subdivisional Canal Officer The Canal Officer will endeavour to stop the unauthorized use of water by persons who do not hold these permits as far as it may be possible to do so when the lessee applies to him in writing to do so

10 The lessee must conclude his own agreements with persons to whom he may sell water either for manufacture of indigo or irrigation, and must himself enforce those agreements

In cases where lands have been irrigated without application and water-rates have been imposed by the Canal Officer under section 79 of Act III (B C) of 1876, the water-rates may, at the request of the Canal Officer, be recovered by the Collector under the Public Demands Recovery Act

11 If two or more persons desire to be joint lessees of the same canal, they may submit a joint application in the form of Appendix No II, and shall appoint one of their number to be the chief lessee, he shall communicate with the Canal Officer on all points connected with the supply of water and with its distribution among the other lessees

12 If two or more of the four channels are leased at the same time, and there is any difficulty in supplying the full quantity of water required by the lessees, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible between the lessees in proportion to the sums paid by them for the leases of the respective channels.

PART IV

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

No I of 1894

The following Bill was introduced and read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, and referred to a Select Committee, on the 9th February, 1894, and is hereby published for information, together with a Statement of its Objects and Reasons —

A Bill to amend Bengal Act I of 1893

Preamble

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act, 1893, it is hereby enacted as follows —

Title. Commencement.

1 This Act may be called "the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Amendment Act, 1894" It shall be read with, and taken as part of, Bengal Act I of 1893 and shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor General

Amendment of section 8

2 In section 8 for clause (2) the following shall be substituted —

"(2) That the annual fee imposed in respect thereof be paid in one sum in advance, or in quarterly, or other instalments, as the Commissioners may, from time to time, determine"

New section to follow section 10

3 After section 10 the following section shall be inserted —

Fee payable from 28th June 1893 to 31st March 1894

"10A Anything in this Act contained notwithstanding, a fee in respect of a license shall be payable on the first day of April 1894 in respect of every such building or place as is described in section five, by the owner or occupier thereof, for the period commencing on the twenty-eighth day of June 1893 (the date on which this Act came into force) and ending on the thirty-first day of March 1894 calculated on the basis of the annual fee which was payable in respect of such building or place under the provisions of section five of Bengal Act IV of 1883"

New section to follow section 23

4 After section 23 the following section shall be inserted —

"23A If the Commissioners fail to pay as required by the last preceding section, the Local Government may, by an order in writing, fix a time within which the payment shall be made If payment is not made within the time so fixed, the Local Government may, by an order in writing, direct the person having the custody of the municipal fund to make the payment forthwith from the municipal fund"

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Government has been advised that as there is no provision in Bengal Act I of 1893 requiring the fees for licenses for warehouses to be paid in advance or by instalments, the annual fees payable thereunder are not due or payable till the expiry of the year to which they refer The Government has also been advised that under the terms of section 10 of the aforesaid Act the amount of fee to be charged for a license depends upon the budget passed for the year, that under section 26 the budget must be prepared in the month of February to come into force from 1st April following, and that, as no budget under the Act was framed in February, 1893, no fees can be levied thereunder for the year 1893-94

In view of the administrative difficulty occasioned by this opinion, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to provide (a) that fees shall continue to be levied under the provisions of the old Bengal Act IV of 1883 up to the 31st March, 1894, and (b) that fees shall be leviable under the new Act I of 1893, with effect from the 1st April, 1894, in advance in one lump sum or by instalments as the Commissioners may determine

The opportunity is also taken of inserting a provision in the Act to enforce the compliance of municipalities with an order passed by the Local Government under section 23 of the Act

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

FEVER, which has from time to time assumed an epidemic and virulent type in these Provinces, being to a large extent attributable to obstructed drainage, the present measure, having for its object the improvement of drainage by enabling local bodies to combine for the execution of comprehensive drainage schemes, has been introduced and is the outcome of the fourth Resolution passed at the Belvedere Conference on the 18th July, 1892 The Bill provides that whenever there is reason to believe that the sanitary condition of any local area can be improved by drainage, the Local Government may, either of its own motion or upon the representation of the District Officer or the District Board, appoint to be Drainage Commissioners persons properly qualified by their interest in land. It will be their duty to cause a survey to be made, which they will forward to the Local Government with a full report showing the nature of the undertaking, particulars as to the estate and tenure-holders and cultivating raiyats of the local area with the annual value of the estates, tenures and holdings, and an estimate of the incidence of cost upon them When this report has been considered and approved by Government, it is to be returned to the Commissioners, who will duly notify the scheme, and in due course call upon the District Board to come to a decision upon the question of adopting it If the District Board dissent from the scheme they will have to defray all costs incurred up to that point If they assent, the Commissioners will consider it again and may forward it to the Local Government for final approval and the issue of orders

Provision is made for the payment of compensation for damage All necessary expenditure for the purposes of the Act may be advanced in the first instance from the public funds as soon as the works are completed, the officer in charge has to report the total expenditure, the liability for which the Commissioners will forthwith proceed to allot among the holders of estates situated within the local area in such proportion as shall be determined in accordance with rules to be made by the Local Government in that behalf A report of this apportionment is to be forwarded to the Commissioner of the Division and published locally Objections to the apportionment will be considered and disposed of by the Commissioners, subject to an appeal to the Divisional Commissioner, whose decision shall be final The sums so apportioned are made payable by instalments spread over a period of 30 years Provision is made for the recovery of sums due to the Collector, and with the recovery by estate and tenure-holders from inferior tenants of a proportionate share of the cost of the works It will be the duty of the Collector to serve on each holder of an estate a notice showing the amount of the first and every subsequent instalment in due course, and he is empowered to recover as a public demand, with interest, the amount of any instalment which may fall into arrears Half of any sums paid to the Collector or to an estate-holder, as the case may be, may be recovered by an estate-holder from a tenure holder or cultivating raiyat, and by a tenure-holder from a cultivating raiyat in the same manner as road and public works cesses At the commencement of every year an estimate of expenses for maintenance and repair of the works will be prepared, and the sum so estimated will be payable in the same manner and in the same proportion as the original apportionment

NEW MEMBERS.

The HON'BLE MESSRS BUCKLAND, BONNERJEE, and STUART, and the HON'BLE MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY, of Natore, took their seats in Council

MORAL IMPROVEMENT OF CONVICTS

In the absence of the HON'BLE MAULVI SYED FAZL IMAM KHAN BAHADUR, the HON'BLE MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked—

Have the Government received any report from the non-official Visitors of Jails in Bihar, and if any report has been received, have any suggestions been made by the said Visitors for the moral improvement of convicts, and will the Government lay on the table such reports?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The observations recorded by all non-official Visitors of Jails are laid before the Inspector-General of Jails, and that officer has reported to Government that no suggestions by the non-official Visitors of Jails in Bihar have been made on the subject of the moral improvement of convicts"

RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN JAILS

In the absence of the HON'BLE MAULVI SYED FAZL IMAM KHAN BAHADUR, the HON'BLE MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked—

The Government having in view the improvement of jails, do they not think it advisable to confer the benefits of religious training on convicts by establishing religious services in jails?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"This subject has been under the consideration of Government on various occasions, and it has been decided that no religious services shall be permitted in Indian jails Any deviation from this rule in ordinary jails would, in the opinion of Government, lead to confusion and be subversive of jail discipline The only exception is in the Presidency Jail, where a large number of European prisoners is sometimes collected, and where provision has been made for the performance of the service of the Protestant and Roman Catholic Christian Churches In all jails prisoners of all classes are allowed to perform their private devotions at suitable times and in suitable places"

TRIAL OF CASES DURING MAGISTERIAL TOURS

The HON'BLE MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked—

(a) Is the Government aware of the great inconvenience and harassment caused to the parties and their witnesses in criminal cases by reason of their being compelled to follow magisterial officers about in camp during their tour?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to adopt some measure with a view to remove the grievances in this connection?

(c) Whether it would not be practicable for Magistrates, while out on tour, to deal only with such cases as arise in the locality which they have to visit, instead of trying cases coming from places beyond a reasonable distance?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"No reports have reached the Government to show that inconvenience is often caused to parties and witnesses by their being compelled to follow magisterial officers on their tour, and the Government is not disposed to think that any serious inconvenience is felt by the class as a whole, for while some persons may have to go further to reach the camp than if the Court was at the head-quarters station, others have their cases tried at places closer to their homes It is not practicable for Magistrates while on tour to deal only with cases arising in the vicinity of their camp, but the Government believe that, as a rule, efforts are made by Magistrates to fix those dates for the hearing of cases on which their camp will be nearest to the place where the case arose

"His Honour will cause a copy of the Hon'ble Member's question and of this answer to it to be communicated to all Magistrates with instructions to comply with the spirit of the Hon'ble Member's wishes to the utmost of their power"

EMPLOYMENT OF MUHAMMADANS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

The HON'BLE MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked—

Whether the Government is aware of any improvement, and if any, what improvement, in the position of the Muhammadans with respect to State employment since the Resolution of the Government of India of the 13th October, 1885?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The question of the employment of Muhammadans in Government service continues to receive the careful attention of Government, and is made the subject of comment every year in the annual Administration Reports received from Commissioners of Divisions The Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that there is an improvement in the position of Muhammadans in respect to their employment corresponding to the improvement which is taking place in their education In the selection of recruits for the Provincial and Subordinate Civil Services, consideration is always given to the claims of Muhammadan candidates who have obtained qualifying marks The Civil List shows that 15 Muhammadans have been appointed to officiate as Deputy Magistrates and Collectors and 9 as Sub-Deputy Collectors during the past two and a half years

"The percentage of Muhammadan Deputy Magistrates and Collectors now in the service is 11 5, while in January, 1885, the percentage was 10 8, and the proportion is much larger in the lower ranks of the service to which officers have recently been appointed than it is in the higher grades

"A special table is appended to the annual reports of Divisional Commissioners showing the number of Muhammadans in Government service, and the figures published in last year's reports show that the number had increased from 2,722 in 1891-92 to 2,913 in 1892-93"

TRANSFER OF THE CHITTAGONG DIVISION TO ASSAM

The HON'BLE MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked—

Whether the Government will be pleased to inform if it is in contemplation to transfer the Chittagong Division to the Chief Commissionership of Assam, and whether it is aware of the extreme apprehension with which such transfer is regarded by the people of the division?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The proposal to transfer the Chittagong Division to the Chief Commissionership of Assam has been made, and is under the consideration of Government, but it is not contemplated to give effect to it until the railway connecting Chittagong with Assam has been completed, and the Government of India has not yet issued any final orders on the subject"

REDUCTION OF THE NUMBER OF SUBORDINATE JUDGES COURTS AT PATNA.

The HON'BLE MR W C BONNERJEE asked—

I If it has been decided to have only two Subordinate Judges' Courts for the district of Patna? and if so—

II Whether the Government has, in arriving at this decision, taken into account the fact that the civil work of the district is very heavy, that the Subordinate Judges, besides title suits, have to decide Small Cause Court cases, and also, at the request of the District Judge, Land Acquisition and Succession Certificate cases, and that not long ago the District Judge had to remove a heavy title suit from the file of one of the three Subordinate Judges to his own file on the ground that the latter had his hands quite full, and that, if he went on with that case, the business of his Court would be at a standstill for some time?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The question raised by the Hon'ble Member has not been submitted for the consideration of Government, and it follows therefore that no decision has been arrived at. Any change in the number of Subordinate Judges would require the sanction of Government, and that sanction would not be given except on the recommendation of the High Court, by whom such circumstances as those alluded to by the Hon'ble Member in his question would no doubt be fully considered."

NUMBER OF CERTAIN CLASSES OF PUBLIC SERVANTS

The HON'BLE MR COTTON said —"Before I proceed to answer the questions placed on the notice paper by the HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, I desire to fulfil the pledge made in this Council on the 11th November last, in reply to a question made by the Hon'ble Member regarding the number and classes and salaries of persons in the public service. The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT then stated that the information asked for in regard to the Indian Civil Service, the Provincial Service, and the Subordinate Service in Bengal, so far as the employment of Europeans, Eurasians and Natives of India is concerned, would be procured and laid on the table. I have now the pleasure to fulfil that pledge, and lay on the table a statement which supplies the information promised.

CLASSIFICATION OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYES ACCORDING TO NATIONALITY AND SALARY.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state whether a return was submitted to Parliament in 1891 showing the number of European, Eurasian and Native officers of Government, on 1st April, 1890, on salaries ranging from Rs 1,000 to Rs 1,00,000 and upwards per annum?

If so, is the Government prepared to lay this return on the table so far as Bengal is concerned, giving details by departments, and will the Government state what would be the cost of bringing the information up to the 1st April, 1893?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The return referred to was presented to Parliament on the 13th May, 1892

"A copy of this statement was laid on the table of the Legislative Council of the Governor General of India on the 9th March, 1893, by the HON'BLE SIR DAVID BARBOUR in reply to a question put in that Council by the HON'BLE MR CHENTSAL RAO, and will be found annexed to the Council's Proceedings of that date This statement gives separate statistics for the several provinces of British India, but does not give details by departments

"Looking to the recent production and publication of these returns, the Lieutenant-Governor is disposed to think that to prepare this statement afresh with the details required by the Hon'ble Member would occasion unnecessary trouble and expense, but he will cause further inquiries on the subject to be made, and will communicate the result to the Hon'ble Member"

HINDU RELIGIOUS ENDOWMENTS

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government enquire into the present state of Hindu religious endowments administered by Hindu Mahants with a view to ascertain whether these funds have not in many cases been wasted or misappropriated ?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"As far as Government is aware, no such suggestion has ever been laid before it, and there are no facts at present within its cognizance which lead to the conclusion that such an enquiry is required"

PUBLIC WORKS CESS AND SANITATION

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state what the surplus balance of the Public Works cess has been for the last three years, year by year ?

And if there is a balance, is the Government prepared to devote it to the improvement of sanitation in the mufassal ?

Is the Government prepared to accept the principle which Miss Florence Nightingale advocates for purposes of village sanitation in this country, viz, "the localization of existing village cesses, and that none of the proceeds should leave a village until provision has been made for the sanitary needs most directly affecting life and health?"

The HON'BLE MR BOURDILLON replied —

"There is no such thing as a surplus balance of the Public Works cess The cess is levied for the construction, charges and maintenance of Provincial Public Works constructed for the benefit of the province and for its protection against famine it is is a matter of practice primarily devoted to the payment of the charges for interest on the capital expended on canals in excess of the net receipts from these works The estimate for these charges in 1893-94 is Rs 24,48,000, and as the proceeds of the tax are estimated for the same year at Rs 41,50,000, there will remain a considerable sum above the amount appropriated for interest This sum is merged in the Provincial revenues, and whatever its amount may be, it is always much less than the sum annually expended by the Government on the construction, charges and maintenance of ordinary Provincial Public Works this sum usually exceeds thirty lakhs of rupees, and is quite insufficient for the requirements of the province

"In these circumstances, no balance is available for expenditure on sanitation in the mufassal

"No village cesses of the kind referred to by Miss F. Nightingale exist in Bengal, and the Lieutenant Governor is doubtful whether any feasible scheme for giving effect to her suggestions could be devised at present"

BHUTAN DOOARS ACT.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state why Act X of 1859 is still allowed to remain in force in the Jalpaiguri district when it has been repealed in the other districts of Bengal, and why Act VIII of 1885 (the Bengal Tenancy Act) is not enforced in the aforesaid district? Is the Government aware of the following expression of opinion recorded by Mr Justice Rampini and Mr Finucane, Director of Land Records and Agriculture, that the Bhutan Duars Act (Act XVI of 1869), which is in force in the khas mahals of Jalpaiguri, is no law at all, for it merely excludes the ordinary Civil Courts from the cognisance of suits relating to immoveable property, revenue or rent, without laying down any law or rules for the guidance of officers appointed by the Government to exercise jurisdiction in this tract of country?

Will the Government state why, in spite of this expression of opinion and the petitions of the people concerned, the Act is still allowed to remain in force in the aforesaid tract, and the people deprived of the privilege of having their rights judicially disposed of by the ordinary Civil Courts?

The HON'BLE MR BUCKLAND replied —

"The subject of the Hon'ble Member's interrogation has for some time been under the consideration of Government The Government does not agree with the remark of Mr Rampini and Mr Finucane that Act XVI of 1869 'may be briefly described as no law at all,' since it gives the force of law to certain rules therein contained In April last the Lieutenant-Governor informed a deputation of tea-planters that he was prepared to recommend to the Government of India that Act XVI of 1869 should be repealed, but the question remains as to the law by which it should be replaced This question has been under discussion with the Board and the Law Officers of Government, and their final opinion is still awaited"

COMPLAINT AGAINST THE SOLDIERS OF THE 8TH BENGAL CAVALRY

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of Government been called to the proceedings of some soldiers of the 8th Bengal Cavalry who, with a number of coolies, have frequently been harassing the people of Moheshtolah and the neighbouring villages in the 24 Parganas by cutting their mat-reeds (madur) and taking away by force sugarcane, plantains and vegetable products belonging to the villagers, whether Mr Nurul Hudi, Joint Magistrate, went to make an enquiry and expressed his regret at the doings of the soldiers, and whether Government intended to take any further action in the matter to prevent a recurrence of these proceedings?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The facts stated in this question have not been brought to the notice of Government, and Government does not propose to interfere in the matter referred to unless it has reason to suspect that the action taken by the local officers is insufficient for the prevention of disorder"

MR MORSHEAD'S JUDICIAL WORK

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Is it a fact that in the month of August or September last the High Court suggested to the District and Sessions Judge of Muzaffarpur that he should submit a report about Mr Morshead, at that time Sub-divisional Officer of Hajipur, regarding the quality of his work? Did the Judge report that Mr Morshead was incompetent to exercise the powers vested in him? Has Mr Morshead since then been invested with summary powers as Sub-divisional Officer of Kurseong, which he did not then possess?

The HON'BLE MR. COTTON replied —

"It is the case that the Judge of Muzaffarpur reported unfavourably of the judicial work of Mr Morshead In consequence of this report, the Lieutenant-Governor has withdrawn the summary powers with which Mr Morshead was invested as Sub-divisional Officer of Kurseong"

PETITION FROM ALI HOSSEIN OF SIWAN.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government state whether it has received a petition from one Ali Hossein of Mahamda in Saran district, alleging that the Joint-Magistrate of Siwan, Mr Lang, during the trial of a case No 59 of 1893, under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, Empress versus Kindhari Rai and Dilram Sahoo, connected with the Bassantpur case, used the following expressions or any such towards the said Ali Hossein when he was being examined as a witness —"You appear on behalf of Hindu and hence you are not Mussalman, but you are son of a Rajput and Hindu I have exempted Mussalmans, Chamars and Dosadhs from the tax which will be levied on Hindus of that elaka, but now you shall have to pay the tax"

If so, will the Government state what enquiries have been made into the above allegations, and with what result?

If not, will the Government enquire into the allegations and place the result of the enquiry before the Council?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The Government received an unsigned petition, purporting to come from one Ali Hossein, in October last, which contained statements similar to those reproduced in the Hon'ble Member's question An explanation was called for and a report was submitted by Mr Lang through the Commissioner, which has satisfied the Lieutenant Governor that the words complained of were not used by Mr Lang, and that the incident is unworthy of further notice"

APPOINTMENT OF PLEADERS AND MUKHTEARS AS MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS

The HON'BLE MR L GHOSE asked—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to a letter published in the Statesman of the 16th January last, purporting to be a circular issued by the Commissioner of the Presidency Division to District Magistrates of the Division, directing them to avoid, as a general rule, recommending pleaders or mukhtears for appointment as Municipal Commissioners?

Does such direction meet with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor, and if not, will His Honour order the withdrawal of so much of the circular as relates to the exclusion of pleaders and mukhtears from the sphere of nomination?

The HON'BLE MR BOURDILLON replied —

"The attention of Government has been drawn to the circular in question The Commissioner of the Presidency Division has explained that his meaning was that pleaders and mukhtears should not as a rule be nominated for appointment as Municipal Commissioners, since it was probable that this class would be largely represented among the elected Commissioners The Lieutenant-Governor has ascertained that the orders in question were understood in this sense by the District Magistrates of the Presidency Division, and he does not propose to interfere in a matter in which the Commissioner was fully entitled to use his own discretion"

THE BASANTPUR RIOT CASE

The HON'BLE MR L GHOSE asked—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the comments made by Mr H. W Gordon, Sessions Judge of Saran, on the conduct and evidence of certain police officers in his judgment, dated the 28th December, 1893, in the case of the Empress versus Ram Nath Sahoo and others, commonly known as the Basantpur case, and also to the following passages thereof —"On the 1st December, Mr Garth asked for the production of the police papers in the Bali case (not the diaries), and the District Magistrate was requested to direct the District Superintendent of Police to produce them, but they were never produced I then, under section 172, Criminal Procedure Code, called for the special diaries in the case In reply to a further call the District Superintendent regretted his inability to produce the diaries of preceding dates on the ground that they had been done away with by Sub Inspector Khyrat Ali I then asked for copies of the diaries, and in reply I am informed by the District Magistrate that neither the originals nor copies of the diaries in question are forthcoming . No explanation is given of the inability of the District Superintendent to produce the copies asked for ? '

Has the Government taken any, and if so what, action with reference to the police officers whose evidence has been disbelieved by the Sessions Judge, and with reference to Sub-Inspector Khyrat Ali for having done away with the original diaries?

Whether the Government will call upon the District Magistrate and the District Superintendent of Police to explain why the copies of the diaries asked for by the Sessions Judge were not produced, and whether such explanation will be laid on the table ?

The HON'BLE MR. COTTON replied.—

"The Lieutenant-Governor's attention has been attracted to the case in question and to the observations of the Sessions Judge, and His Honour has ordered a careful enquiry to be made into the conduct of the police, and especially in regard to the non-production of police papers when called for by the Judge"

PROCEDURE OF POLICE IN RECORDING STATEMENTS OF WITNESSES

The HON'BLE MR L GHOSE asked—

(a) Is the Government aware that there is a general practice among police officers in the mufassal, while recording statements of witnesses during an investigation under Chapter XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code, not to record such statements separately under section 161 of the Code, but to incorporate them with other matters required to be recorded under section 172 of the Code, such other matters not being liable to be called for by the accused person or his Counsel ?

(b) Whether such practice owes its origin to, or has been sanctioned by, a circular issued by, or under the authority of, the Inspector General of Police ?

(c) Whether in view of the difficulties thrown in the way of efficient cross examination and of a full and impartial trial, and having regard to the observations of the learned Judges of the High Court in the case of Sheru Sha versus the Queen Empress (Indian Law Reports, 20 Cal, page 642), His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will order the discontinuance of such practice, and direct that all statements of witnesses recorded under Chapter XIV, Criminal Procedure Code, shall be separately recorded under section 161 of the Code?

The HON'BLE MR COTTON replied —

"The Government is not aware that there is any general practice among police officers such as the Hon'ble Member describes.

"The procedure to be followed by Police Officers in the preparation of special diaries is laid down in Circular No. 12 of the Inspector-General of Police, dated 30th October, 1893, a copy of which will be communicated to the Hon'ble Member for information. Any Police Officer making an investigation may, under section 161, Criminal Procedure Code, orally examine any witness, and may reduce that witness's statement into writing. He is not obliged to do either But if he does record such statements, then his record is not privileged The Lieutenant-Governor is advised that the discretion vested in Police Officers by section 161, Criminal Procedure Code, cannot legally be fettered by any executive order, and this point is made clear in the circular The statements recorded under this section form no part of the diary made under section 172 of the Code which a Police Officer is bound under law to keep, and is a record of the acts done by him and of the results of his investigation.

"The procedure which the Hon'ble Member desires to be prescribed is apparently the procedure which is actually in force"

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL.

The HON'BLE MR. BOURDILLON, in presenting the final report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884, said —

"It is not my intention, Sir, to detain the Council to-day for any length of time by remarks on the Bill which, on behalf of the Select Committee, I have now the honour to lay on the table, since the Report of that Committee has purposely been made somewhat fuller than is usually the case I will therefore say no more than is necessary in order to sketch briefly the past history of the measure and to indicate its leading features, so that members of this Council, who did not take part in the deliberations of the Select Committee, may be able to recognise at a glance the salient points which are most likely to provoke discussion and invite attack. Another cogent argument in favour of brevity, Sir, is that this measure has already been before the public for a long time, and the draft which the Committee now commend to the favourable verdict of the Council is the sixth which has been prepared with that object The first draft of the Bill containing 38 sections was submitted to the Government of India so long ago as June 1891 After it had received the provisional and general approval of His Excellency the Governor-General, it was circulated for the opinions and suggestions of Commissioners and District Officers, who were requested to expedite their replies in order that the Bill might be passed into law during the Session of 1891 92—a sanguine expectation, which experience has shown to be fallacious Before these replies had all been received, the Lieutenant-Governor found it advisable to enlarge the scope of the measure, and a second draft was circulated for further opinion in January 1892 A third draft, based upon the suggestions thus obtained, was introduced into Council on the 16th July of the same year, and was on the same day referred to a Select Committee. So expeditious were the proceedings of that body, that within a month-and a half they had prepared a fourth draft, which they submitted to Council with a preliminary report, and which, in accordance with their recommendations, was circulated for opinions on the 30th August 1892 During the cold weather of 1892-93, this Select Committee sat again and prepared a fifth draft, which it was their intention to present to Council, but the illness of the HON'BLE MR RISLEY, the Member in charge of the Bill, whose absence to-day every one here must deplore, and other causes, delayed the preparation of their report, and about this time the question of enlarging this Council came under discussion The consequence was that no report was submitted, and, in accordance with the recommendations made by the HON'BLE MR RISLEY, in his speech of the 19th July last in this place, the whole question was referred to the Select Committee to which additional members were nominated on that occasion, and this body, with very little change in its constitution, now lays on the table as the result of its labours a Bill of 93 sections During the two-and-a-half years which have elapsed since the Bill was first drawn, its various provisions have been elaborately discussed, and an immense number of opinions has been collected and carefully considered by two Select Committees, so that it may be permitted to those who are responsible for the Bill to hope that it bears some marks at least of that wisdom which flows from a multitude of counsellors

"You will not have failed to notice, Sir, that the report of the Select Committee is not unanimous, but considering the many contentious points that were laid before them, no other result could be expected, and a unanimous report could have introduced nothing but an epicene measure quite unworthy of the consideration of this Council We have preferred to differ and be vigorous, rather than to be united and feeble, the minority being confident of a patient hearing and a wise decision on the part of this Council on each point as it arises

"In the speech which he delivered at the meeting of the Council in July last, the HON'BLE MR. RISLEY mentioned a few of the principal provisions which had been embodied in the Bill prepared by the Select Committee over which he presided, but as several of those provisions have again been modified, it is necessary to deal with them again, and it will be most convenient to do so in the order in which they stand in the Bill I propose to notice only those which seem to possess the greatest importance

"The first of these is contained in sections 4 and 5 of the Bill which deal with a question of considerable administrative value, viz, the conditions under which the boundaries of a local area which enjoys municipal privileges under the Act can be varied, or a municipality be entirely removed from the operation of the Act As the law now stands, a municipality once constituted cannot be abolished, nor can its limits be varied except upon the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting For obvious reasons such a course is not often adopted, for Municipal Commissioners as a rule are as resolute as Gambetta not to cede a foot of territory, and these provinces afford more than one example of a municipality clinging with tenacious grasp to an outlying village, while it implores the District Board to relieve it of the cost of maintaining the intervening roads Moreover, municipalities wax and wane, and several instances have been reported to Government of places which no longer fulfil the conditions which once entitled them to the benefit of municipal institutions To meet such cases as these, it was at one time proposed to empower the Lieutenant-Governor of his own motion to withdraw any place from the operation of the Act The suggestion was stoutly opposed, and eventually the Lieutenant-Governor, in a speech delivered in this Chamber on the 7th January 1893, announced his readiness to abandon the proposal as it then stood The provisions of the Bill as now drafted have been designed to lay down a middle course It is proposed to leave the power of the initiative as at present to the Municipal Commissioners themselves, whether for the exclusion of a municipality from the Act, or for its sub division or expansion, but a clause has been added empowering Government to abolish a municipality or vary its boundaries only when it clearly appears that it no longer fulfils the conditions laid down by the Act, but before any action is taken in this direction, whether by Government of its own motion or upon the recommendation of the Commissioners, due notice of the intention will be given, and ample opportunity afforded for the expression of local opinion I trust, Sir, that the moderation of this proposal will be generally approved, and that what is a substantial administrative inconvenience will be remedied

"Under section 14 of the Act, the Local Government appoints one-third of the Commissioners of a municipality, the remaining two-thirds being elected by the rate-payers It is proposed to take power to appoint some of these gentlemen either ex officio or by name instead of by name only as at present The object of the change is to avoid the delay and inconvenience which sometimes occur when a Commissioner who has been nominated by Government leaves the locality I venture to think that to this proposal a somewhat exaggerated importance has been attached, which finds expression in the dissent recorded by two members of the Select Committee

"Section 7 of the Bill is important both for what it omits and for what it includes It lays down distinctly for the first time what are the rates the payment of which up to a fixed minimum confers the franchise, and it extends the privilege of a vote to certain classes of persons who hitherto have not enjoyed it The Select Committee anticipate little opposition to this reform. They have also in connection with this subject considered more than one proposal to raise the minimum qualifying payment to Rs. 5 instead of Rs 3, but have rejected it since it appeared that the effect of such a change in the law would be the disenfranchisement of a large number of voters and the virtual abolition of many of the smaller municipalities

"Section 22 of the Bill engrafts on to the stock of the old Act thirteen new sections designed to give effect to the Resolutions passed at the Belvedere Conference of the 18th July 1892, on the subject of Drainage and Water-supply Upon the provisions of this section as originally drafted the previous Select Committee were unable to express any confident opinion, but they have been considered in great detail by the Committee whose spokesman I have the honour to be, and, except in regard to one point, we are practically unanimous In the earlier draft of these sections it was assumed that the initiative in all schemes for water-supply and drainage, especially those in which more than one municipality is concerned, would be taken by Government, but on reconsideration it was decided, in accordance with the general spirit of municipal legislation of late years, that the Government should not act until it was found that the local authorities would not do so, and that an opportunity of action should always be accorded to the latter in the first instance Ample provision has also been made for the full consideration of the scheme by all concerned, but a minority of the Committee urge that the ultimate decision on the question whether a work should be carried out or not should be left to the local authorities concerned It is the opinion of the majority that the insertion of such a clause as this would go far to render inoperative the whole provisions of this section

"The draft Bill as it reached the present Select Committee fresh from the anvil of their predecessors provided with great detail for the appointment of "an Assessor of municipal taxes for every municipality or for any two or more municipalities according as the Local Government shall direct," and for the results which would flow therefrom No principle of the Bill has been more bitterly attacked than this, and the assaults have come from many quarters Moreover, the Committee were penetrated with the conviction that, even were the principle adopted, great difficulties would surround its execution in practice While it was pressed on the one hand that the appointment of an Assessor would relieve the Commissioners of what is often regarded as an odious duty, it was forcibly urged in reply that an outside Assessor from want of local knowledge would be useless in the case of the numerous municipalities in which the tax on persons is in force, and that to appoint an Assessor to every municipality would involve them in an expense for which, in the great majority of cases, there would be no justification, while the alternative course, viz. to select those in which an Assessor should be nominated would be an invidious and almost impossible task for Government to undertake. After giving the matter their best consideration, the Committee unanimously agreed that the necessities of the case would be fully met by providing for the appointment of an Assessor only when the need for his services is clearly demonstrated, and the municipality concerned has failed to accept the opportunity offered it of rectifying its assessment. They believe that the new section 111A, enacted by section 40 of the Bill, will be found to provide the requisite remedy

"The question of Building Regulations (section 64) is one which has occupied much of the time of the Select Committee, and they have found it advisable to redraft sections 237 to 241 of the Act which treat of this subject The more elaborate provisions which it is now proposed to pass into law are for the most part taken from the Punjab Municipal Act, which represents the fine flower of municipal legislation, and the latest effort of the Supreme Legislative Council in that direction It has been admitted that some of these provisions (although confined to houses not being huts) are more suitable to large towns such as Howrah, Dacca and Patna than to the rank and file of small municipalities, and in order to meet this difficulty, it has been left to the option of Municipal Commissioners to make elaborate rules or not, and it has been specially provided that the section under which the power to make such rules is given shall not be extended to any municipality except at the request of the Commissioners. The effect will be that the simpler provisions of section 238 as now drafted will be in force in all places to which Part VI of the Act may be extended, while those Municipalities which are ambitious of more elaborate regulations will be able to have them introduced by applying to the Lieutenant-Governor.

"The small space occupied in the Bill by the sections referring to the important question of the levy of a water-rate (section 76) does not adequately convey the pains which have been bestowed upon the subject, nor its intrinsic importance, which grows every day with the development of water-supply schemes in all parts of the province The Committee have stated definitely the principle upon which the rate shall be assessed, and have declined to adopt the recommendation of their predecessors that the use of water for purposes other than domestic should be absolutely interdicted They have also raised the maximum up to which the water-rate may be levied, and have provided that the Water rate Fund may be charged with a proportionate share of the cost of collection and of the general establishment.

"In the same way the proposal to alter the system under which the cost of cleansing private privies and cesspools has hitherto been provided has received careful consideration, with the result that the Committee differing from their predecessors have decided not to recommend any change in the existing system The tax is undoubtedly unpopular, and the suggestion to substitute a fee for service rendered in place of a general rate had at first sight an attractive appearance, but the practical difficulties of the proposal outweighed its theoretical advantages, and the Committee were unanimous in rejecting it Some relief has been given by providing that the rate shall be assessed only on those holdings which contain a dwelling-house, and by allowing refunds or remission in the case of vacant holdings

"These, Sir, are the principal subjects on which discussion and debate may be anticipated when the Bill is taken into consideration by this Council, but there are many others which, though not of the first magnitude, have considerable administrative importance They are mentioned in the Report of the Select Committee, and for further particulars I will refer members of this Council to that report, naming here only three, viz, the power to make survey (section 62), the power to arrange for the extinction and prevention of fire (section 86), and the power to make rules as distinguished from bye-laws (section 90)

"With these few words, Sir, I desire to launch the Bill for the amendment of the Bengal Municipal Act upon the waters of debate May no rude airs perplex the shining keel, and may the flood be neither too deep nor too stormy for the good ship or for the inexperienced mariner who stands at the helm She has been long a-building may the event prove that her lines are good and her construction stout and strong

"I now beg to move that the Bill, as presented by the Select Committee, may be taken into consideration upon such a date as the President may think fit to direct, and as the Bill is long, and its provisions of very wide application, I have no doubt that members will desire to have ample time to consider it themselves and to refer it to their constituents for opinion."

LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE-BRIGADE ACT, 1893, AMENDMENT BILL.

The HON'BLE MR COTTON moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Bengal Act I of 1893 (Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act). He said —

"Briefly speaking there are three reasons which render it necessary to amend the Act which was passed by this Council last year The first relates to the payment of the annual fees prescribed for warehouses It was the intention of this Council that these fees should be levied either in advance or by instalments, as the Municipal Commissioners might decide One of the conditions under which a license is to be given is to the effect that the annual fee imposed in respect thereof shall be paid as in that case made and provided, and in the schedule annexed to the Act, which contains the form of license, provision is made for an annual or other date for payment of the fee But there is no provision in the Act itself declaring that the fee shall be payable in advance, or otherwise, as the Commissioners may decide. This point was referred to the legal advisers of the Crown, and the Government has been informed that, as there is no express provision in the Act itself on this subject, the annual fees payable under the Act are not due or payable until the expiry of the year to which they relate In order to remedy this defect, it is proposed to amend section 8 by specifically declaring that the annual fees shall be paid in one sum in advance or in quarterly or other instalments as the Commissioners may from time to time determine.

"The second reason for amending the Act is of very much greater importance and difficulty The Government has been advised that the amount of fee to be charged for licenses for warehouses depends on the budget passed for the year, and that under section 26 the budget must be prepared in the month of February, and come into force on the 1st of April following, and that as no budget under the Act was prepared in the month of February, 1893, no fees can be levied under the Act for the year 1893 94 This is a very serious question The budget was prepared in February, 1893, and was duly submitted to Government, and has been approved by the Government, but from the nature of the case that budget was prepared under the repealed Act IV (B C) of 1883, and the provision of the new law, section 2, sub section (2), which introduces a saving clause to the effect that all rules, financial arrangements, &c, made under the old Act will continue to be in force, unfortunately is not, as we are advised, applicable to the budget so prepared That saving clause is subject to the proviso that such rules, financial arrangements, &c, shall be and remain in force so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions of the now Act Government is, however, advised that a budget prepared under the old Act is inconsistent with the provisions of the new Act, and therefore it is not validated by the saving clause In these circumstances it becomes necessary to remove the serious administrative difficulties which have been occasioned, and the Bill which I am about to ask your leave to introduce provides that fees shall continue to be levied under the provisions of the old and repealed Act IV of 1883, up to the close of the present financial year, in other words, that the fees which were levied from jute warehouses under the old Act shall continue to be levied for the current year. So far as the levy of fees is concerned, the new arrangements sanctioned under the new law will therefore only come into force from the 1st of April next

"The third reason for amending the Act is to be found in the absence of any provision in Act I of 1893 for enforcing compliance by the Municipalities concerned with an order passed by the Local Government under section 23 directing them to supply funds for the maintenance of the Fire Brigade Now the principle of Act I of 1893 is this, that the Municipal Commissioners are primarily responsible for the provision of funds for the maintenance of the Fire-Brigade according to the budget estimate duly prepared and sanctioned under the Act In order to enable them to obtain funds for this purpose, they are empowered, first, to levy fees on licenses granted to jute and other warehouses under the restrictions imposed in the Act Those fees shall not exceed one-half of the total estimated cost of the Fire Brigade for the year For the raising of the remainder of the funds required, the Commissioners are authorised to impose rates both on bastis and on the general rate-payers, and if those rates are found insufficient to pay the cost of the Fire Brigade, the responsibility rests with the Municipal Commissioners to provide such other sums as may be required, but the law gives no power to the Government to enforce such responsibility The Act contains a clause requiring the Commissioners to pay, as I have said, but in default of their doing so there is no means of insisting upon their compliance It is proposed therefore to introduce a clause in the amending Bill, the spirit of which is taken from section 64 of the Mufassal Municipal Act, which authorises the Local Government, in the event of default, to direct the person having the custody of the Municipal Fund to make payment forthwith from the Municipal Fund These remarks explain briefly the necessity for introducing this amending Bill, and I now beg formally to ask for leave to introduce it in this Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. COTTON said —"It will be apparent from the remarks I have just made that it is very necessary that no time should be lost in considering the provisions of this Bill, and to enable me to refer it to a Select Committee, in order that its clauses may be eventually considered in this Council and passed with the least possible delay, I find it necessary to ask you, Sir, to be good enough to suspend the Rules of Business, in order that I may move that the Bill be read in Council, and with that view a copy of the Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons, has this morning been circulated and placed in the hands of hon'ble members"

THE HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said —"I consider that sufficient reasons have been adduced for suspending the Rules of Business, and I therefore suspend them"

The Motion that the Bill be read in Council was then put and agreed to

The Bill was read accordingly

The HON'BLE MR COTTON said —"Ordinarily a Bill is not introduced and referred to a Select Committee on the same day, but as I have said no time should be lost in this matter, and I therefore propose that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee With your permission I will slightly modify the names specified in the List of Business It is obviously desirable that the HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE GENERAL should be a member of the Select Committee, but his name has been omitted by an oversight I understand that MR WOMACK, whose name is entered as a member of the Select Committee, will be absent from Calcutta during a portion of the time when the Committee will sit, and with his consent I desire to omit his name and insert the name of the HON'BLE SIR JOHN LAMBERT, who was in the Select Committee when the original Bill was considered The Select Committee will then consist of the HON'BLE THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL, THE HON'BLE MR BOURDILLON, THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, THE HON'BLE SIR JOHN LAMBERT, THE HON'BLE MR STUART and the Mover"

The HON'BLE MR BONNERJEE said —I do not think the Bill in its present form ought to be sent into Committee Section 4 of the Bill introduces a new principle It may be quite true, as the hon'ble member has told the Council, that it has been taken from the Bengal Municipal Act, but it is new as regards this Bill I for one have been taken rather by surprise, because it seems to me there is no urgency with regard to this new principle proposed to be added to section 23 of the Act, and we ought to have time to consider it Besides if it is desired really to add to the Bill a clause embodying the new principle, it seems to me that the clause as it stands is insufficient, and will not, as I read it, be of the service which the hon'ble member thinks it will, without the addition to it of other words I have not the Act itself before me which it is intended to amend, but unless there is some provision in it dealing with the matter, the person having the custody of the Municipal Fund may omit to make the payment he is called upon to make and not suffer any penalty for doing so. It will, therefore, be necessary to add some words in the section, making it compulsory on such person to obey the order of Government, and further, when that has been done, you should give the person who is required to obey the order of Government some indemnity against his employers, the Municipal Commissioners, otherwise such person might find himself in an uncomfortable position I repeat that this section introduces a question of principle of some importance, and as the members of the Council have not had an opportunity of considering it, and as there seems to be no urgency for passing this provision in a hurry, I would respectfully suggest that the Bill be referred to a Committee without this particular section, a separate Bill being brought in afterwards for the purpose For the purpose of correcting an administrative difficulty, there can be no harm in passing a Bill without following very strictly the ordinary procedure, but I do think that it is desirable that sufficient time should be given to consider a provision of this kind I am not in a position at present to say whether the power proposed to be given by the proposed section 23A ought to be given or not

THE HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said —"I have listened with attention to the hon'ble member's remarks, and I must say that I think those remarks are out of order and cannot be considered at this stage The motion before the Council must be taken as a whole This is not the stage at which any motion can be considered that a particular section should be left out"

The Motion was then put and agreed to

BENGAL SANITARY DRAINAGE BILL

The HON'BLE MR LYALL moved for leave to introduce a Bill to facilitate the construction of drainage works for improving the sanitary condition of local areas He said —

"The Bill which I ask leave to introduce is the result of the fourth resolution come to at the Conference, known as the Belvedere Conference, on the 18th July, 1892, which runs as follows —'that when an application is made to Government on the part of the inhabitants of any tract where malarial fever prevails, or when it is notorious that there is a high rate of mortality due to the want of drainage, provision shall be made by law for ascertaining the wishes of the majority of the inhabitants or owners of property concerned, and if the majority support the scheme, the Government shall be empowered to carry out comprehensive schemes of drainage, and to raise from the area affected such funds as may be necessary for meeting the cost of such schemes'

"When the proceedings of that Conference were circulated, the following was added —'The greater part of this resolution was agreed to unanimously, but there was some difference of opinion on the question whether the District Board should be taken to represent the wishes of the inhabitants of the tract of country affected by a drainage scheme, or whether special provisions should be introduced for the purpose of recording the votes of the population who would have to contribute towards the cost' The former view was carried by a considerable majority

"The necessity for such regulations has since been strongly emphasized by the results of the census, which have been summarised in an article in the Calcutta Review by the Collector of Bankura, Mr Barlow, and his article has again been summarised by Mr Dutt, the Collector of Burdwan, in a letter which he recently wrote to the Englishman I ask leave to read a small part of that letter to the Council as describing the objects which the Government have in view in introducing this Bill He says —'A paper which appeared in a recent number of the Calcutta Review from the pen of Mr Barlow, Collector of Bankura, on the Census and the Decline of Bengal deserves public attention The facts which he sets out at the commencement of the article are sufficiently alarming Rangpur and Dinajpur have become unhealthy within the memory of living men Two thanas in Malda have lost three per cent of their population in ten years In Rajshahi 'the spectacle of whole villages depopulated by a growing mortality was almost universal' In the west of Pabna 'many villages are relapsing into complete jungle' In Jessore 16 thanas have lost six per cent in population In Nadia three out of its four subdivisions show decrease in population Murshidabad fares no better Burdwan shows a decrease in spite of the coal and pottery industries of Raniganj The whole of the centre of Midnapur is in a declining state Mr Barlow sums up 'that the condition of Bengal proper is that all the old parts are in a state of more or less decay, while prosperity and improvement are found only in the rich alluvial eastern districts and in the parts of the western districts where new land is being broken up'

"These were the facts brought before us by the results of the census, and they have long been before the Government, having been brought before Government by various distinguished members of the community, particularly those who live in Hooghly and Burdwan It was the opinion of the Belvedere Conference, and that opinion is again brought forward by Mr Dutt, that much of these disastrous results were due to the silting up of old drainage channels in Bengal In the eastern districts these channels still remain, but in the Central and part of the western districts many are silted up, and it is the opinion of many that the opening of those channels will materially improve the health of the people. I think the Council will admit that if this result can be obtained by legislation, there can be no doubt that such legislation should be introduced The Bill, I have now the honour to introduce, is founded upon the Bengal Drainage Act It has not been considered, or published, or placed in the hands of Members of Council It has merely been put together by the Legislative Department, and I now place it before you for your consideration."

The Motion was put and agreed to

The HON'BLE MR. LYALL also applied to the President to suspend the Rules of Business

CALCUTTA TRAMWAYS BILL

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved for leave to introduce a Bill to give effect to an agreement made between the Corporation of Calcutta and the Calcutta Tramways Company, Limited He said —

"The history of the Bill might be summarised as follows —In April last the Calcutta Tramways Company represented to the Calcutta Corporation that their finances were in a bad way, that they had not been able to pay any dividend for some time, and that, unless some concessions were made to them, they would be compelled to stop the service Negotiations were opened, and the matter was thoroughly gone into by the Corporation, and the Corporation felt that the Tramways Company was doing an important service, and that a discontinuance of that service would be a great hardship to a large section of the public, and that, having regard to their financial position, it was necessary to make some concessions Accordingly, at a meeting of the Commissioners held on the 4th May, 1893, the following resolution was adopted by a large majority of the Commissioners —'That the track rent per mile be fixed at the present rates up to the end of the 21st year of the present agreement, and that a remission of Rs 15,000 a year be granted for five years with effect from 1894, subject to the condition that the dividends declared by the Tramways Company do not exceed $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent per annum during that period, and that the Company undertake not to stop the running of the cars without the previous consent of the Commissioners That if the above terms be accepted by the Company, an agreement be drawn up modifying the existing agreement, and providing for the Company's continuous working hereafter under a new term' This resolution introduced three modifications of a very important character in the existing agreement The old agreement, which the present Bill proposed to amend and modify, was that of 1879, which formed the subject of legislative enactment, and the agreement itself was contained in a schedule of Act I of 1880 The modifications were of a three-fold nature. In the first place the Commissioners decided to give up the periodical enhancement of rent to which they were entitled under the 1879 agreement, and definitely decided to accept, as fixed rent, the track rent then being paid, with effect from the 1st January, 1894, to 31st December, 1899 In the second place, the Commissioners agreed to remit yearly for five years Rs. 15,000, unless in the meantime the finances of the Tramways Company were so far improved that they were able to declare a dividend of more than $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent These conditions represented the sum and substance of the concessions made by the Corporation The Tramways Company on their side agreed to a quid pro quo They agreed not to discontinue running the cars upon any of the existing lines, or on any lines which may be hereafter opened, except with the sanction of Commissioners. The terms of the resolution have been embodied in an agreement, but there is a legal difficulty in the way The rate of the track rent is a part of a legislative enactment, and is embodied in the schedule to Act I of 1880, therefore, it is necessary to change the law. To make assurance doubly sure, the Commissioners took legal advice, and Mr Stokoe gave the following opinion about the matter — 'In my opinion the Corporation are not authorised to make an alteration in the rent payable under the old agreement of 1879, without the sanction of an Act empowering them to do so' Nor is this all The Act of 1880 does not contain any provision which would empower the Commissioners to enter into an agreement such as now has been entered into, by which they can compel the Company to run their cars upon any line after service had been once begun These are the reasons for the motion which I have the honour to make The motion does not involve any great or important principle It only involves, and that in an indirect manner, the acceptance by this Council of the agreement between the Corporation and the Tramways Company in regard to a matter about which it must be conceded on all hands that the Corporation is the best judge"

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 24th February, 1894

OBSERVATIONS

In July and August 1890 the Gogra river, which forms the boundary on the south-west of the Saran district, overflowed its banks The inundation spread over a large area of country, and caused much damage. The Collector of the district, at the instance of the proprietors of the land interested, urged on the Lieutenant-Governor the construction of an embankment from Gutni to Damri, a distance of about 40 miles The matter was referred to Colonel J M. McNeile, R E, Chief Engineer, Irrigation Branch, who stated that the embankment would be objectionable on the following grounds —(1) that the regimen of the river would be affected, (2) that the effect of contracting the spill area would be to raise the flood-level of the river with the result that immense damage would ensue elsewhere (3) that by shutting out the floods the country would be deprived of the fertilizing silt deposit, which was a consequence of the floods. A proposal to construct an embankment for the same purpose was negatived in 1877 on the advice of the Board of Revenue, who reported that the scheme was not popular with many of the landholders, and that the inundation was by no means an unmixed evil, for to some extent, it fertilised the land by rich silt deposits.

2 The damage caused by the flood of 1890 was very great the area inundated being 560 square miles, and the value of the crops destroyed was roughly estimated by the Collector to be about 80 lakhs of rupees In a note, dated the 6th January 1891 Mr Buckley, Superintending Engineer, who had reported on the flood shortly after it occurred, stated that the area flooded by the Gogra was 260 square miles, that flooded partly by the Ganges and partly by the Gogra, 240 square miles, and that flooded wholly by the Ganges, 60 square miles The area flooded by the Gogra would he considered, be greatly benefited by the proposed embankment, and that partly flooded by that river in a lesser degree. The main objection to the embankment was that the flood-level of both the Gogra and Ganges would be raised The rise, in the case of the former river at least would be material Mr Buckley concluded his note as follows —

"I therefore advise much caution in dealing with this matter I have personally very little doubt that it would be a mistake to embank the Gogra It would be only laying up trouble for the future The lower parts of Saran have been subject to floods from time immemorial the people should adjust their arrangements to the facts Floods are not unmitigated evils they fertilize the soil very greatly If the Gogra is to be embanked, why not the Sone? To embank these big rivers without more knowledge than we possess at present is to tamper with one of the great forces of nature, and we cannot tell the ultimate results We do know that embankments frequently result in raising the beds of the rivers embanked, and thus in compelling the heightening of the embankments, until a point is reached when all life within the protected area lies in imminent danger of complete annihilation We do not know whether this would follow in this case—probably not, but it is a possible result"

In giving this opinion Mr Buckley did not allude to the fact that embankments for the protection of the Saran district from the floods of the river Gogra had previously existed, and though incomplete and badly aligned, they had been of service This aspect of the case is referred in a note, dated the 18th March 1891, by Mr C W Odling, at that time Superintending Engineer of the Sone Circle, from which the following extract is given —

"1 There is one very important point which I do not think has been more than alluded to by Mr Lees and altogether neglected by Mr Buckley

"2 Mr Buckley has, if I understand his note rightly, assumed that by shutting out the high flood of the Gogra from Saran, Dinapore and Bankipore and places further down the river will be in greater danger of inundation than they have been in past years One of the points regarding which I made enquiries during my recent tour in Saran was whether it was proposed to exclude floods from Saran which have formerly been allowed free ingress in that district The assertion is that the zamindari embankments which have only been recently destroyed were substantially effective in excluding floods What is asked for is that whatever measure of protection the district enjoyed previous to 1890 shall be restored The protection may be incomplete, but it was of great value Mr Lees informs me that he never contemplated doing more than embank one side of the river, he contemplated, it is true, an effective embankment, but that he would have no objection to such proportion of a flood as formerly entered having free ingress If this were done, neither the residents on the other side of the river nor the persons lower down would have real grounds of complaint, and there could be no ground for the damages feared by Mr Buckley (vide paragraph 13)"

The Lieutenant Governor having in view the magnitude of the losses sustained determined that the Gogra river should be surveyed in order to ascertain whether protection could not be given to a portion of the tract which had been injured by the flood of 1890 It was recognized that a complete embankment such as was desired by the civil officers and landholders was in all probability out of the question, and the real question was the extent to which it was advisable to repair the old embankments, and whether by this means and possibly some moderate extensions, substantial benefits could be secured to the district

3 The survey was completed in April 1892, and the reports having been considered, orders were issued to submit an estimate for the construction of an embankment from Bhata on the left bank of the river Daha to Damri on the river Gogra It had been reported that Bhata was the limit of the spill of the river Gogra. In the investigations connected with the framing of this estimate it was ascertained that the flooded area extended beyond Bhata, and that in order to secure protection from flood, it would be necessary to extend the embankment to Gouspore, near Ekma, on the Bengal and North-Western Railway.

There were thus three distinct proposals before Government, which are summarised below —

I —The proposal by the civil officers, strongly supported by the landholders interested, is to embank the left bank of the Gogra river from Gutni downwards to Damri

II —The proposal to construct an embankment from Bhata on the left bank of the Daha river to Damri This proposal was chiefly based on the grounds that the work was practically repairing old embankments, and that though serious risk was incurred, the benefits to be derived would be such as to justify Government in incurring the expenditure necessary to guard against these risks There was also the consideration that the landholders had a prescriptive right to an embankment to the limited extent mentioned above

III —The proposal to construct an embankment from Damri to Gouspore This embankment as far as Rawal is on the same alignment as the embankment to Bhata, but its length is 14½ miles instead of 7¼, its estimated cost, Rs 70,683, in place of Rs 36,704, and from Rawal to Gouspore it takes a line nearly at right angles to the flow of the current

As it was certain that proposal No II, which was the only one to which serious objections on engineering grounds were not taken, would not be effective, the Lieutenant Governor determined to defer taking any action in the matter until Mr Buckley returned from furlough in July 1893 That officer had previously reported on the case, and had special experience on engineering works dependent on the flood discharges of large rivers, so that the Lieutenant-Governor in obtaining his advice would be materially aided in coming to a right decision on a matter in which so many interests were involved and which was of much importance to the welfare of the district

4 Mr Buckley has submitted a very complete and exhaustive note, dated the 9th October 1893, the material parts of which, as regards the proposed Gouspore-Damri embankment, are contained in paragraphs 12 to 16, which are quoted below —

"12 The proposed embankment is designed to exclude the Gogra floods from that part of the inundated tract which lies south of a line drawn from a little above the Ekma station to the mouth of the Daha nala at its junction with the Gogra The line which the embankment follows is, I think, the least expensive line which could have been chosen for the object of protecting the particular area indicated I believe it was mainly selected for that reason From Gouspore near the railway the line cuts across to the bank of the Bohta nala, which it follows to Rawal, where the Bohta flows into the Daha nala from that point the line follows the Daha down to the Gogra at Phoolwaria from that point it runs along the Gogra into high ground The Daha nala is a large one, draining some 400 or 500 square miles, having a cross section, which at high flood-level is capable of carrying some 20,000 cubic feet a second the Bohta nala is much smaller, and has a drainage area of only some 50 square miles The banks of both nalas are somewhat raised, so that the line is fairly on a ridge except between Gouspore and the point where it joins the Bohta "

"13 The line offers considerable advantages it is claimed for it that it will not appreciably raise the flood-level above the proposed embankment I agree that, if the object in view is the protection of the particular tract in question, or, if the object is to do something which will give effective relief from all floods at a minimum of cost, no better line can be found But I do not agree that the flood level will not be raised The embankment lies practically at right angles to the general flow of the spill water It is contemplated, in the previous papers, that it will throw back 50,000 cubic feet of water per second into the Gogra For reasons which I have given above, I think that figure should be raised to at least 60,000 cubic feet the Daha nala, though a considerable channel, is incompetent, at the existing high flood levels, to carry that quantity From calculations which have been made I have arrived at the conclusion that the proposed embankment would raise the flood-level by 18 inches, or two feet at the upper end and perhaps a foot at the lower end The high flood-level at Gouspore appears to have been about 189 00 it would probably be 191 00 The embankment as designed would be competent to resist these levels of flood The increased height of flood would be greatest near the embankment, and would extend some three or four miles above it, the increase gradually lying out"

"14 The enhanced height of the flood would increase the area flooded, both by extending the limit of the flood and by submerging high ground within the present limits which escaped before The Siwan Chapra road is practically the eastern boundary of the present flood, if the road were raised a little, and self-acting gates were placed on the culverts, the extension of the flood-limits would be completely stopped, and this would not cost much. But nothing can prevent the increased flood-level within the area immediately above the embankment the rise would have to be endured This evil is the strongest argument against the proposed line, and it is one which is, I gather, already quite appreciated by the villagers in this tract There can be no doubt that the embankment would be most valuable in protecting the area below it I do not hesitate to say that, in years of great floods, it would save property (and perhaps life) to a large extent I believe the zamindars concerned would pay for it, and the people benefited would be satisfied But it is, in my judgment, equally undeniable that a considerable tract, say some 18 square miles, immediately above the embankment, would be more or less injuriously affected, the crops would be submerged more deeply, a few more houses would be destroyed, a few more cattle would be lost more people might possibly be drowned, and the cultivators would certainly be disposed to believe that the effects produced extended further than they actually did These results are to be deplored in themselves, but they would probably produce other results which have a practical bearing on this question of the policy of the construction of this embankment I doubt very much whether, on the occasion of a high flood when the people above the embankment found the waters rising upon them, it would be possible to prevent them from cutting the embankment, especially in the upper parts We know the troubles which the Turki bund in Muzaffarpur produces, and I think this embankment would offer far greater temptation than that one This difficulty might be partially met by carrying the embankment across the Bohta (putting a sluice there) and up the left bank of the Daha to the limits of the flood Such an embankment would not be so likely to be cut as the proposed one I should decidedly prefer that line, but although it would protect a larger area, it would be considerably more expensive I consider this line to be a better one, because it is on the bank of a much larger stream, and is diagonal to the course of the spills instead of being practically at right angles to that course An embankment on that line would still result in an increase in flood-level on the unprotected area to the west and south of it, but the rise would not be so apparent as in the other case"

"15 The embankment from Gouspore to Damri is estimated to cost Rs 70,683, including land, establishment, and tools and plant The estimate appears to me to be sufficient in itself, but I would increase it to Rs 75,000 to provide against any breach in the Siwan-Chapra road due to increase in flood-level I am asked to say what addition should be made to it for 'any probable compensation which may have to be paid' I presume this means compensation to the residents above the embankment whose lands will be more deeply flooded I have given this matter my best attention, but I do not see any way to calculate the money value of the loss which would be incurred In many cases the actual loss would not be increased if the crop is destroyed by three feet of water the loss will be no greater if the depth be four feet It is true that some high fields would be submerged that escaped before, but these would not be a large area, and it cannot be determined what the area is"

"16 One of the main arguments which has been fully discussed in the previous papers against this or any other embankment on the Gogra is that it must raise the flood level of the Ganges and threaten Dinapore and Patna to some extent This danger is admitted, and, when it had been determined to proceed with the embankment originally proposed between Damri and Bhata, it was said that 'Government will be doing as much as is possible without incurring the risk of raising the flood level of the rivers Ganges and Gogra to a dangerous extent, and that even this partial embankment will be a source of anxiety and possible expense to Government in respect to the comparatively small rise in the flood surface of the river Ganges at Dinapore, which will follow on the works proposed being carried out' The rise which is referred to was calculated to be five inches This must, in my opinion, be increased to at least six inches, and I consider that a greater rise is probable To my mind the responsibility undertaken by Government in this respect is a grave one It is quite true that if heavy floods in the Gogra never happened to be simultaneous with heavy floods in the Ganges, the increased height of the Ganges might never be brought forward as a basis of claims for damage, but if they did, the claims would be good ones There is also this to be said, that no one can tell where the damage done by an increase in the flood-level will operate, for all we know, there may be tracts in the low ground below Patna, which even the small rise which is contemplated would affect injuriously when it was quite harmless as regards the towns themselves"

In the accompanying letter No. 4230, dated the 12th October 1893, Mr Buckley made the following observations —

"In this letter I would refer in less technical and detailed terms to the general considerations which bear upon the matter The proposal immediately under discussion is the construction of an embankment which would protect from inundation rather less than half the area in Saran, which is flooded by the Gogra The area which is to be protected is about one-fifth of the entire area, lying on both banks of the Gogra, which is flooded by that river in the two Provinces. Every one who has touched this question is agreed that we dare not completely embank the Gogra river on both banks, we are all conscious that that is highly undesirable, we are aware that it would raise large questions in the river itself, and in Dinapore, Bankipore and lower down the Ganges, which we are not prepared to deal with, we are also aware that if we embank one side of the river to any extent, there must, in self-defence, be reprisals on the other side But while we are afraid of facing the ultimate issue, we like nibbling at the matter and trying, first here, then there, how far we think we can go without raising the general question In this case, as in most other embankment cases, the benefits to be derived are so obvious, so undisputed, so immediate, while the disadvantages

(which the cautious ones suggest) are so problematical, so indefinite, and need so much proving that the advocates of the embankment have far the most plausible case to put forward, and the reasons given for the embankments, so far as they go, are so good in themselves that it is impossible not to sympathise with the objects of the promoters of the embankment scheme"

5 The Chief Engineer in reviewing Mr Buckley's note pointed out—

I —That a complete embankment from Gutni to Damri was considered inadmissible by all of the Engineers consulted That the effect of such an embankment would be to completely exclude spill water from passing over the left bank of the river Gogra and that the water which, but for an embankment, would have escaped in this way would be added to the volume of water passing down the river itself and spilling over the right bank, which would thus be inundated to a greater extent than before the construction of an embankment The ultimate result of a complete embankment on either one or both sides of the river must be to cause damage extending below Bankipore, the extent and magnitude of which no one could foretell For the reasons given above, such an embankment had, from the first, been regarded by Government as in all probability impracticable, though it was desired by the landholders as the only means of affording complete relief to the whole of the inundated area in the Saran district

II —In regard to the Damri-Rawal-Gouspore embankment, the alignment was such that serious damage to a tract of country 10 square miles in extent outside the embankment was certain to occur That the rise in the surface of the flood-level due to the construction of the embankment would be considerable, and that the compensation to be paid for local damage caused might be very large Further, it would probably not be possible to hold the embankment it would, in the event of a high flood, almost certainly be cut by the persons injured, who are very much alive to the damage which is likely to be caused to them, and have lodged a petition against it If made sufficiently high, it would, so long as it could be held, be efficient in protecting a large area of land in Saran, and the landholders interested would be willing to pay for it

III —In regard to the proposal to restore and repair the old embankments from Damri to Rawal either by raising them above the highest flood-level or above a moderate flood only, the objection is that in either case the embankment would not be effective as a protection against flood In the former case the embankment would be outflanked, and in the latter would also be overtopped If carried out by Government, there would certainly be an outcry against paying for works from which no benefit would be derived when most needed

RESOLUTION —The Lieutenant-Governor has caused the question of the construction of the embankment on the left bank of the river Gogra, proposed by the Collector of Saran at the instance of the landholders, to be very fully investigated by the most experienced Engineers in the service of the Bengal Government His Honour, considering the heavy losses sustained by the inhabitants of that district in the floods of July and August 1890, was very anxious to sanction, if possible, under the provisions of Act II B C of 1882 the construction of an embankment, which would be a safeguard against similar disasters in future The Lieutenant-Governor could not, however, ignore the general objections to embankments as in the end not unlikely to increase the evils which they are constructed to prevent Bengal has not been without examples of those evils, and, within recent years, it has been found to be necessary to remove embankments on the rivers Damodar and Gunti, which, though intended for the protection of the districts traversed by those rivers from flood, have in the end been found to be injurious rather than beneficial In the present case extreme caution is necessary, as in 1888 Dinapore was in imminent danger of being swamped by the Ganges floods, and a very small rise in the flood-level of that river might have disastrous results The Engineers have approached the subject with the view of ascertaining how far protective works could be allowed without incurring extreme risk Sir Charles Elliott has, after the most careful consideration of the subject, and with every desire to arrive at an opposite result, come to the decision that the risk of constructing the embankments described in paragraph 5, clauses I and II of this Resolution, is too great to be incurred With regard to the proposed embankment from Damri to Rawal, which is in effect restoring embankments already in existence, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that the landholders concerned are entitled to this measure of protection, and the reports of the Engineers consulted do not show that so limited an embankment would be a source of appreciable danger elsewhere But the embankment would not be effective, and it would fail in years of extraordinary floods when most required It is, therefore, not a work which can properly be taken up by Government If the landholders interested are of opinion that this embankment would, although affording protection against moderate floods only, be beneficial to them, there is no objection to their carrying it out at their own expense, and His Honour is willing that the work shall be supervised by Government Engineers. The embankment will not, however, be a Government embankment, but will be the property of the persons who construct it, and must be maintained by them

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C W ODLING,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal

ORDER —Ordered (1) that a copy of this Resolution, with map, be forwarded to the Commissioner of Patna and, to the Superintending Engineer, Sone Circle, for information

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY 1894

THE following have been the principal features in the meteorology of January 1894 —

1 The mean pressure for the month has been below the normal by about 0 02" to 0 03", the defects being usually largest at the eastern and northern stations The barometric changes from day to day on the whole have been small, and have thus indicated the existence of fairly settled weather practically throughout the month

2 The mean temperature of the whole province of Bengal has been above the normal by about a degree, while on the other hand in Assam there has been a defect of 0 3° In Bengal also the excess temperature has been largest over the western half of the province, and indeed at the eastern stations slight defects have been recorded The excess has been developed to the greatest extent in the maximum, or day, temperatures, and in the case of the night, or minimum, temperatures almost the whole of the eastern half of the province shows slight defects

3 Humidity in Bengal has been in distinct excess, except at a few of the south-western stations In Assam also humidity has been slightly higher than usual

4 Cloud proportion has been very decidedly in defect at all stations Indeed, in many cases cloud proportion has only equalled about half the usual amount, or even less than this

5 Although rather numerous depressions have appeared in North-Western India and have passed eastwards through Upper India, they have practically all broken up before reaching Bengal The waves of warm moist air in front of these depressions have affected Bengal largely during the month, but with one slight exception the depressions themselves have not given any rain to Bengal

6 Owing therefore to the almost entire absence of the passage of these depressions through Bengal, on which almost the whole of the rainfall of the cold-weather months is due, January has been almost rainless in Bengal, and except for light rain in Orissa and towards the close of the month in Bihar and North Bengal, rainfall has been absent

The following is a very brief summary of the principal meteorological changes which have occurred during January Generally the changes have been quite unimportant, and hence detailed description is unnecessary —

At the beginning of January a very decided barometric depression or cyclonic storm existed over the western desert, which gradually filled up and disappeared without altering its position to any great extent It, however, gave low pressure with high temperature and humidity for several days in Bengal The disturbed conditions due to the depression even reached Bengal for a brief period and gave a few local showers in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and North Bengal In Upper India the storm gave heavy rain in the plains and snow in the hills, but the effects of the depression to a great extent disappeared on the 4th and the cold wave of air following after the depression then began to advance in a south-easterly direction and reached Bengal from about the 6th Weather therefore in Bengal was of ordinary settled north-east monsoon condition throughout the second week of the month A steady and fairly dry northerly and north westerly wind prevailed over the Province during the whole of this period, skies were practically cloudless, and absolutely no rain fell The barometric changes were also very small Temperature, on the other hand, fell rather briskly during the first two or three days of the week, and then rose slowly till nearly its close when it became steady

About the end of the second week, however, another barometric depression formed over North-West rn In ia, and after a brief existence disappeared On the 14th again another rather badly-defined cold-weather storm appeared over Baluchistan, and on the 15th the rapid fall of pressure accompanying the depression had extended over North-Western India From the 15th to the 19th disturbed conditions accompanying depressions continued to exist over North-Western India, and on the 20th and 21st they had commenced to affect Bihar slightly, and a few light showers of rain were reported on these days in the Shahabad and Gaya districts In connection with these disturbed conditions temperature and humidity continued high in Bengal throughout the third week of the month From about the 24th, however, the low pressure areas had quite broken up and the wave of cool dry air, which always follows in the rear of a depression, began to advance in a south-easterly direction, and on this date and on the following days temperature began to fall generally in Bengal, the fall of the mean temperature within twenty-four hours at many stations equalling 5° and 6° on some days This decrease quickly ceased, for on the 27th another depression made its appearance in Upper India, and on the 28th a deep barometric depression existed over the North-West Himalayas This, however, had only a brief history, as on the 29th it had almost broken up Temperature on the 28th, 29th and 30th therefore increased rapidly in Bengal, but on the 31st the wave of cool air following the depression reached Bengal, and on this date a fall of 2° to 5° was recorded

It will hence be seen that there has been a rapid succession of barometric depressions entering North-Western India during January, but that practically all of them dispersed before they reached Bengal They have, however, had a marked effect on the weather during the month in Bengal, and have given a succession of warm moist waves of air followed by waves of cool dry air, but generally the latter were of shorter duration than the former Thus though weather in Bengal has been tolerably fine and settled during January, and for the greater part of the time skies have been almost cloudless and there has been little rain except a few local showers in Orissa, Bihar and North Bengal, yet during the greater part of the period the weather was distinctly influenced by the formation and advance of depressions in Upper India, and hence temperature and humidity were in distinct excess for the greater part of the period, while pressure on the other hand has been low

Pressure —The mean pressure for the first week of the month was in defect by from 0 05" to 0 08", while in the second week the variations from the normal were small, and pressure was in slight excess by from 0 01" to 0 03" at the great majority of stations In the third week a small defect of about 0 01" to 0 02" had again established itself, and in the fourth week the defect had increased to 0 04" For the whole month therefore the mean pressure has been in defect in all districts The defect at the central and extreme western stations has been generally smaller than 0 025", but over the greater part of the province it has equalled from about 0 03" to 0 04" In Assam the defect has averaged 0 037 "

Temperature —In the first week of the month the mean temperature of Bengal was above the normal by 2 5°, while in the second week the excess was replaced by a defect of 2 1° In the third week the defect had disappeared, and had been replaced by a small excess of 0 3°, and this had increased in the fourth week to 2 2° For the whole month a general excess of about 0 9° has been registered in Bengal, but while Bihar and Chota Nagpur have recorded temperatures from 1° to 2° in excess, in East Bengal on the other hand a slight defect of 0 2° has been registered In Assam also the mean temperature of January has been 0 3° in defect

In the case of the maximum temperatures small excess amounts of from about half to one and a half degrees have been recorded in all districts except perhaps at Sibsagar, but in the case of the night, or minimum, temperatures in the eastern half of the province defects usually less than 1° have been registered, while in the western half the excess amounts have ranged up to 2° at the western stations in Bihar

The actual oscillations and variations of the maximum, minimum, and mean temperature from the normal week by week, for the month at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given in the following table —

CALCUTTA, the 13th February 1894

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A M, SATURDAY, THE 10TH OF FEBRUARY 1894

At the close of the previous week a very feeble depression had passed in an easterly direction through the Province, and on the 3rd or the last day of that week a rapid increase of pressure had occurred in Bengal in the rear of the depression, and weather was again becoming settled On the 4th or the first day of the week under review, the increase of pressure had continued in Bengal, and pressure had become rather largely in excess, while temperature and humidity on the other hand were commencing to fall, though temperature was still above the normal by about 2° On the 5th pressure was falling by small amounts, while temperature had decreased rather briskly, though it was still in excess over the greater part of the Province On the 6th the changes in Bengal were small, though temperature was still falling, but over Western and North-Western India conditions had become decidedly unsettled, and a shallow storm was shown over the Western Desert, Guzerat and the North Konkan On the 7th this barometric depression had drifted slowly in an easterly direction, and the centre was near Khandeish Pressure, however, was rising in Bengal, but the effect of the advancing depression was shown in the rather rapid increase of temperature which was reported on this day, and at several of the western stations the mean temperature was 5° and 6° higher than the normal On the 8th the shallow depression had filled up to a considerable extent, and had again moved in an easterly direction, and was lying over the west of the Central Provinces It was, however, sufficiently near to affect Bengal considerably, and numerous rain showers were reported in Bihar on the morning of the 8th, while temperature had again risen rapidly, the increase in the mean temperature at several stations equalling about 5° Owing to the filling up of the depression, however, pressure was increasing in Bengal on this day On the 9th the depression had apparently again advanced in an easterly direction, but it was very slight and scarcely traceable The pressure changes in Bengal were irregular, while temperature had again risen except at some of the western stations, and had become above the normal by about 5° over a large part of the Province Rain was again reported over a considerable part of Bihar on the morning of the 9th, showing the continued influence of the depression On the 10th the depression was over Bengal, and at many stations in the centre and north-east of the Province a fall of pressure exceeding a tenth of an inch was reported, but the wind system was very little influenced by the depression, and the position of its centre can scarcely be stated Temperature continued unusually high in connection with the depression, and was from about 4° to 8° in excess A few showers were also reported from Bihar on this day

Bengal has therefore for a large part of the week again been under the influence of the warm moist wave of air in front of and accompanying a barometric depression, and rain has also again fallen in connection with it in Bihar

Pressure—For the greater part of the week has been in excess of the normal, though on the 10th, while affected by the actual depression, pressure in Bengal was in defect For the whole week the mean pressure has been from about 0 05″ to 0 06″ in excess, the excess being smallest in the east of the Province

Temperature—Has again been above the normal, and the excess for the week for the whole Province has equalled 2 9° This excess has been smallest in Orissa and largest in North Bengal, in which division it has equalled the very large amount of 4 5°

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the usual temperature for the present season, are most clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the Province are compared with the normal values for the same period The variations in different districts, it will be seen, have been very large in the night and moderate in the day temperatures The minimum temperatures have thus shown by far the largest excess amounts, and the general excess at the nine stations has equalled about 3 7° while on the other hand the day or maximum temperatures have shown an excess of only 0 8°

Rainfall —The general fall in South Bihar during the week has averaged 0 14 inch and in North Bihar 0 10 inch. The falls, however, have been rather irregularly distributed, and the districts of Sonthal Parganas, Monghyr and Purnea have received little or no rain

The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground

PART IV

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

THE following Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them, is, by order of the President, published for general information —

FINAL REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

WE, the Committee appointed to consider the draft Bill to amend the Bengal Municipal Act (III of 1884), beg to present the following report

2 On the 25th August, 1892, the Select Committee presented to Council a Preliminary Report, together with a draft Bill, containing 84 sections, which, in accordance with their recommendations, was again published for general comment The opinions recorded on this draft Bill were fully considered by the Select Committee, who prepared a further draft of the Bill, but before this draft could be presented, the question of enlarging the Council was taken up, and it was decided that the draft in question, instead of being reported to Council, should be again considered by the larger Select Committee, which it was expected would be nominated from the members of the enlarged Council We have therefore had the advantage of considering not only the draft Bill of the 25th August, 1892, and the opinions expressed thereupon, but also the further draft prepared by our predecessors, of whom two are included in the Committee now responsible for the Bill in its present form We have been practically unanimous in most of the recommendations embodied in the Bill, but where any member has differed on a point of importance, he has recorded a separate note of dissent

3. Bill section 2, Act section 2 —The ruling of the High Court in what is known as the Kushtia case (Mohim Chandra Pal and another versus the Municipality of Kushtia) made it necessary to define the meaning of the word "notification" so as to include declarations and orders made by Government That decision has been set aside by a ruling of a Full Bench of the High Court, but it has been thought advisable to retain the definition for the sake of additional clearness.

4 Section 3 of the Bill (6 of the Act) contains a definition of the term "Sanitary Board" Its insertion is necessitated by the proposed new sections (37A to 37M of the Act, introduced by section 22 of the Bill) dealing with the introduction of water-supply and drainage schemes

5. Sections 4 and 5 of the Bill repeal sections 11 and 12 and recast section 9 of the Act It is proposed to give Government the power, upon the motion of the Commissioners and after due notice, to exclude any municipality from the operation of the Act, to exclude or include a local area from or in a municipality, to subdivide a municipality, or to unite together two or more municipalities, and also, after due notice as before, to withdraw of its own motion a municipality from the operation of the Act when it clearly appears that such municipality no longer fulfils the conditions of section 10 of the Act Provision is also made for the apportionment or division of municipal property in the event of action being taken under the above sections

6 Section 6 of the Bill enables the Local Government, under section 14 of the Act, to appoint a Commissioner ex-officio, and several subsequent sections of the Bill give effect to the consequences of this provision

7 Section 7 of the Bill defines what are the rates the payment of which up to Rs 3 per annum confers the franchise The Select Committee have considered and rejected the proposal to raise to Rs 5 the amount of the minimum qualifying payment They also propose to extend the franchise to employés receiving not less than Rs 50 a month from (a) a company which has paid Rs 100 in rates, or (b) a joint-undivided family by one of the members of which not less than Rs 3 have been paid as rates, or (c) who are occupiers of a holding in respect of which a similar minimum payment has been made

8 By section 10 of the Bill we have remodelled section 20 of the Act on the lines of section 18 of Bengal Act III of 1885, so as to indicate more clearly the grounds upon which a Commissioner may be removed We have also provided, in accordance with schedule II, section 70 of the English Public Health Act, 1875, that proceedings in which a disqualified Commissioner has taken part before his removal shall not thereby be invalidated

9 Section 23 of the Act has been amended by section 12 of the Bill, so as to make it clear that when the Commissioners of a municipality not mentioned in the second schedule of the Act have requested the Lieutenant-Governor to appoint a Chairman, they do not thereby surrender their power to appoint a Chairman on the occurrence of a subsequent vacancy Some obvious omissions are also supplied

10 By section 15 of the Bill section 26 of the Act is amended so as to save the official life of outgoing Commissioners till their successors actually undertake the administration The absence of some such provision as this has caused inconvenience in several cases

11 At present the law contains no provision for the grant of leave to a Chairman or Vice-Chairman The omission is supplied by section 16 of the Bill, and section 19 of the Bill adds a clause to section 28 of the Act, legalizing the grant of leave allowances to a salaried Chairman or Vice-Chairman

12 Section 18 of the Bill enacts a new section (27*A*) of the Act, which is intended to amplify and replace section 18 of the Act repealed by section 9 of the Bill It regulates the procedure for the resignation of a Chairman, Vice-Chairman or Commissioner

13 In section 20 of the Bill we have proposed a new section (29*A*), stating what powers under the Act may be delegated by the Local Government to Commissioners of Divisions The number is much smaller than that which appeared in the earlier drafts of the Bill

14 Section 22 of the Bill (37*A* of the Act) has been redrafted on the model of section 30 of Bengal Act III of 1885 and section 27 of Act XX of 1891 The proposed new sections of the Act (37*L* to 37*M*), dealing with the introduction of the systems of water-supply and drainage, have been drafted for the purpose of giving effect to the recommendations of a Conference which met at Belvedere on the 18th July, 1892, to discuss these subjects The Select Committee in their preliminary report explained that they had been unable fully to consider these sections We have very fully and carefully examined them, and have introduced considerable modifications into their form as originally drafted. It is now distinctly enacted that the local authorities shall ordinarily take the initiative in introducing a scheme of this kind, and that Government will intervene only in case of necessity and in the event of the Commissioners omitting to take action Ample provision has also been made for the full consideration of the scheme by all concerned

15 Section 23 of the Bill makes an useful addition to section 38 of the Act Following the model of the English Municipal Corporations Act, we have provided that want of service of notice on a Commissioner shall not affect the validity of a meeting

16 Section 58 of the Act has been redrafted by section 25 of the Bill with the object of making more clear the disqualification of a Commissioner from voting on certain questions

17 In section 69 of the Act words have been added by section 29 of the Bill, allowing the cost of Municipal Benches to be charged to the Municipal Fund, and empowering the Commissioners to maintain as well as construct and improve the roads, tramways, &c, recited in paragraph 1 of that section

18 By a proviso to section 82 of the Act it is proposed (section 31 of the Bill) to declare that if the accounts of a municipality are found to be in bad order, the Local Government may call upon the Commissioners to have them put in order by a certain time, and in case of default may have this work done for them, charging the cost to the Municipal Fund

19 After mature consideration we have omitted section 31 of the Bill referred to the Select Committee, providing for the appointment of an assessor of municipal taxes and for his proceedings We were inclined to doubt the necessity of any general order of this character, and were unable to devise any satisfactory principle for its application We have therefore met what we consider to be the requirements of the case by providing (section 40 of the Bill) a new section (111A) of the Act, which gives power to the Local Government, whenever the assessment of a municipality appears to be insufficient or inequitable, to call upon the Commissioners to revise, amend or justify it, and in default to appoint an assessor for the purpose As a consequence of this action, all the subsequent sections of the Bill referred to us, which deal with the assessor, have been omitted.

20. Section 33 of the draft Bill sent to us has been omitted, as we are not prepared to exempt from calculation in the assessment of the personal tax schools and buildings used exclusively for charitable purposes, but by section 38 of the Bill we allow holdings used for purposes of public charity to be exempted with the previous sanction of the Local Government

21 By section 34 of the Bill now presented we withdraw the exemption in section 87 of the Act of arable lands from consideration when a personal tax is assessed, but exempt burial and burning grounds, our object being to make the exemptions in the case of the rate on holdings and in that of the tax on persons similar

22 In view of the complaints made against the excessive assessment in some cases of holdings the property of a Railway Company or of a Local authority we have by section 35 of the Bill placed holdings containing buildings of this character on the same footing as that already accorded to Government buildings by section 89 of the Act

23 It has been decided by a majority to omit the provisions of section 43 of the draft Bill submitted to us making for the simplification of the procedure for collection of municipal rates and taxes

24 Section 44 of the Bill provides the necessary sanction to the prohibition already embodied in section 125 of the Act

25 We have after careful consideration determined to omit the definition of "habitual use" as applied to carts, which was suggested in section 46 of the draft Bill forwarded to us, and which would otherwise have found a place in section 47 of the present Bill. We prefer to leave the law as it stands

26 Section 52 of the Bill empowers the Commissioners after due formalities to close any source of water-supply which is suspected of being dangerous to health

27 By section 55 of the Bill larger powers have been granted to the Commissioners for the control of buildings in a dangerous state in addition to those given in section 210 of the Act, and section 56 goes on to give the Commissioners power to cause owners to pull down and level ruinous and empty houses This section has been substituted for one which bore number 51 in the previous draft of the Bill

28 Section 62 of the Bill, corresponding to section 48 of the previous draft Bill, empowers the Commissioners to order a survey of the municipality

29 The provisions of section 64 of the Bill, which refer to building regulations, are the outcome of prolonged and careful consideration It has been urged that they are too elaborate for the great majority of mufassal municipalities, and to meet this plea it has been provided that this section shall not be extended to any municipality, except at the request of the Commissioners The next succeeding section of the Act (238), is drafted, provides a simpler procedure for municipalities to which the foregoing section shall not have been extended The opportunity has also been taken to cure a defect in the present law by fixing a period, after the expiry of which the Commissioners shall be presumed to have sanctioned an application for leave to build if they have not already dealt with it, and limiting the period during which sanction given under these sections shall remain in force We have on reconsideration by section 66 of the Bill (242A of the Act) allowed any person aggrieved by orders passed under these sections to appeal to the Commissioners and not to the Magistrate

30 At the instance of the Commissioners of South Barrackpore, we have introduced by section 69 of the Bill a new section (260A), giving the Municipal Commissioners power to grant licenses to persons for the sale of fuel and other necessaries at cremation grounds and to prescribe a rate for the sale of such articles

31 Section 70 of the Bill—After much discussion we have decided to limit the extent to which section 261 of the Act may be used for the levy of a tax instead of license fees by declaring that the scale of fees to be levied shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioner of the Division The provisions taken from the Punjab Municipal Act for the control of petroleum stored otherwise than for sale, and embodied in section 65 of the Bill forwarded to us, have been omitted as unnecessary and liable to abuse

32 Sections 72 and 75 of the Bill empower the Commissioners to forbid within specified limits the burning of bricks for private purposes which could not be prevented under section 261 of the Act

33 The important question of a water-rate is dealt with in sections 76 et seq of the Bill We have decided to allow the Commissioners to retain the power to make arrangements for the supply of water for uses other than domestic, and we have provided that a proportionate share of the cost of collection and general supervision may be debited to the water-rate fund

34 After careful consideration we recommend that the present system of levying fees for the construction and cleansing of privies and cess-pools may be left unaltered We have, however, proposed (section 81 of the Bill) to exempt from taxation under this Part of the Act holdings which do not contain dwelling-houses We have also exempted jails, reformatories and lunatic asylums, in which an establishment is maintained for the cleansing of privies and cess-pools, (section 82 of the Bill), and we have allowed a remission or refund on account of vacant holdings (section 83 of the Bill)

35 By sections 86 et seq of the Bill, which have been taken for the most part from the Panjab Municipal Act, we have proposed that the Commissioners may be empowered to make the necessary arrangements for the prevention and extinction of fire

36 Section 87 of the Bill has been introduced with the object of expanding section 358 of the Act, so as to legalise many bye-laws which are useful and necessary, although not exactly in accord with the wording of the present section 350 of the Act.

37 Section 88 of the Bill gives to municipalities in the hills further powers to make bye-laws in respect of certain matters which possess great importance in those places

38 An omission in the present Act is supplied by section 90 of the Bill, which empowers the Commissioners to make, repeal or alter rules as distinguished from bye-laws for the regulation of their business and affairs the section is based upon section 32 of the Local Self-Government Act, III (B.C.) of 1885.

39 Lastly, it has been decided to abandon the proposal to empower the Commissioners to close brothels on the complaint of the neighbours, on the ground that it would be almost impossible to prevent provisions of this kind from being abused.

I do not sign this Report for reasons which can be hereafter stated if necessary

T. T. ALLEN

In signing the above report, I wish to note that I fully agreed with the views of the majority of the Select Committee, to whom this Bill was at first referred, that the tax upon persons according to their circumstances and property should be abolished altogether, and the provisions relating thereto should be expunged from the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884, and that the method of assessing a rate on the annual value of holdings should be extended uniformly to all municipalities The majority of the Select Committee, whose report this is, have, however, dissented from that view, and allowed the sections relating to tax upon persons to be retained with slight modifications But as I have since been assured that the rate payers of the municipalities where tax on person prevails, instead of objecting to that system of taxation, being accustomed to it from a long time back, prefer it to tax on holdings, and as by section 85 of the Bengal Municipal Act III of 1884, which has been allowed to remain unaltered by the present amending Bill, the Commissioners at a meeting of a municipality, with the sanction of the Local Government, may impose either a tax on persons or a rate on the value of holdings, I will not bring this matter before the Council for discussion or move any amendment based upon the views which I had at first entertained

2 I wish further to note that I do not agree with the majority of the Select Committee submitting this report—

(a) to withdraw by section 34 of the Bill the exemption in section 87 of the Act of arable lands from consideration when a personal tax is assessed,

(b) to empower the Commissioners at a meeting by section 70 of the Bill to levy a tax instead of a license fee under section 261 of the Act,

(c) to leave unaltered the present system of levying fees for the construction and cleansing of privies and cess-pools On this point, I venture to think that sections 71, 72 and 73 of the Bill before the former Select Committee should be taken and incorporated in this Bill.

1 I am not convinced of the necessity for the alteration in section 30 of the Act made by section 21 of the Bill, or of its equity, and I desire to retain the right of opposing it in Council

2 I am opposed to section 38 of the Bill as likely to lead to abuses. If a charity is one to which municipal funds can legally be given, the Commissioners may subscribe to it. If it is not, I object to indirect subscription in the way of remission of tax

3 I desire to retain the right to move for a more simple procedure than that prescribed in section 120 of the Act, and prefer the section proposed by the last Select Committee

4 I desire also to retain the right to move for a modification of section 147 of the Act should further enquiry show such modification to be workable

D R LYALL

The 26th January, 1894.

My signature to the Report of the Select Committee is subject to the following reservations —

2 Section 7 of the Bill —I am of opinion that a definition of the term "resident" should have been added to section 13 of the Act This is necessary for two reasons—one is that the definition of the word contained in the Election Rules is ultra vires as not being based on any authority given by the Act, the other is that the definition in question is far too general in its terms and admits persons both as voters and Commissioners, who are not residents at all within the accepted legal meaning of the term

3 Section 21 of the Bill —In amending section 30 of the Act, I am of opinion that the words "not being private property" should have been omitted as regards roads, having regard to the definition of road contained in section 6, clause (13). If the public has a right-of way over a road, such road cannot be held to be private property, and as regards roads, there seems to me to be a contradiction in terms in the section

4 Tax on Persons —The Select Committee before it was enlarged had decided on the abolition of this tax and the substitution of the rate on holdings for it in all municipalities in which it is in force I concur in that view, and consider that the alleged difficulties in the way of extending the rate on holdings to all municipalities are quite imaginary

5 Section 48 of the Bill, Sections 142 to 147 of the Act —I am of opinion that the only satisfactory way of dealing with the question of cart registration in municipalities is to limit it to such carts as are kept within municipalities Carts which are kept outside municipalities should be dealt with by an amendment of the Local Self Government Act, and should be liable to the payment of the same fees as those specified in section 143 This system would obviate all disputes and prevent all exactions

6 Section 70 of the Bill —I am of opinion that the words "authorizing the levy of a fee for the grant of a license under section 261 of the Act" cannot reasonably be held to confer any power of taxing the industry to which such license refers The object of levying a fee is to remunerate the Municipal office for the extra work thrown on it, and the amount of the fee should be limited accordingly. I do not think that the alterations made in section 261 by section 70 of the Bill will confer any power of levying a tax, as stated in paragraph 31 of the Committee's report As this section has been much abused, I consider that the maximum amount of the fee which may be levied under it should be definitely stated I would not fix it higher than Rs 10

F R STANLEY COLLIER

The 26th January, 1894.

1 Bill section 4.—As regards the second proviso of this section, we are of opinion that the Local Government ought not to take the initiative except upon the recommendation of the Commissioners at a meeting or upon an application made by not less than two-thirds of the registered rate-payers of any local area which, it may be alleged, no longer complies with the conditions laid down in section 10 of the Act

2 Bill section 6 —Appointment by official designation seems to us to be objectionable as having a tendency to make such appointments more or less permanent and thus lessening the chance of non-official appointments We would therefore recommend that this section be omitted and similar words in other sections of the Bill be left out

3 Bill section 10 —If these powers are to be delegated to the Commissioner of the Division, we think an appeal ought to lie to the Local Government. We wish to add that the words "if he refuses to act or becomes incapable of acting" in clause (a) of this section seem to us to be too vague, while clause (b) introduces a new disqualification which is open to objection

4 Bill section 20.—We would recommend that the words "the second paragraph of section 16" be omitted from clause (1) of 29A, as an appointment made by the Local Government would carry greater dignity in popular estimation

5 Bill section 22 (37A).—We think the local authorities or a certain specified majority of the rate-payers ought to have the final decision left in their hands. The local authorities concerned might have votes apportioned to them according to their income, and the decision arrived at by a majority of such votes ought to prevail As an alternative the same power might be conferred upon a majority of not less than two-thirds of the registered rate-payers of the local areas concerned The principle of local option should, in our opinion, be recognized in some form

6 Bill section 30.—We would recommend the addition of a further proviso to section 76, to the effect that the control exercised by the Commissioner of the Division shall be restricted to the heads of the estimate and shall not extend to the details thereof

7 Bill section 39.—If an assessor is appointed, we do not think he ought to be allowed to delegate to any other person the power of entering and inspecting houses conferred by section 99 An officer specially appointed to perform a particular duty ought to do it himself, and should not be permitted to share his responsibility with any other person

8 Bill section 40.—We do not think municipalities ought to be compellable to appoint an assessor, but they should have the power to appoint one whenever they consider it necessary or desirable to do so We would therefore recommend that this section be omitted, and that in the first paragraph of section 16 of the Act, for the words "or Health Officer" the words "Health Officer or Assessor" be substituted

9 Bill section 43.—We would suggest that the first proviso now proposed to be added to section 121 be made more comprehensive by declaring that whenever the property distrained is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners to belong to some person other than the defaulter it shall be released

10 Bill section 55.—We would leave section 210 of the Act as it is We are opposed to any interference with the rights of private property except on the ground of public safety The interests of the public seem to us to be sufficiently guarded by section 210 of the Act and section 243 as amended by section 63 of the Bill Any further interference such as is contemplated by the proposed amendment of section 210 would, in our opinion, be altogether unjustifiable

11 Bill section 59.—We are not in favour of attaching a penalty to section 206 In this case, the owner of the property is not a wrong doer On the contrary, it is the Commissioners who are empowered to take advantage of an accident in order to make an improvement at his expense

12 Bill section 64.—The practical effect of repealing sections 237 to 241 of the Act would be to abolish all building regulations in the municipalities to which Part VI has been already extended. The new provisions, as far as we can see, would be only applicable to a few of the larger municipalities We would therefore recommend that some provision be made for the retention of the existing regulations in those municipalities

(237, clause 4).—At the end of clause (4) of the proposed section 237, we would add the words "at a meeting."

(240) (a).—In clause (a) of the proposed section 240, we would suggest that instead of the words "any material alteration or enlargement of any building" the words "any alteration or enlargement affecting two-thirds of any building" be substituted

13 Bill section 83.—We would recommend the exemption of shops which do not contain any privies when the owners of such shops reside within the same ward of the municipality, and fees are levied from them under this Part in respect of their dwelling houses

L GHOSE.

Supplementary Note

1 Bill section 12—In the event of its being decided that appointments may be made by official designation, we do not think it has been clearly provided by the section as now drafted that when the Commissioners of a municipality not mentioned in the Second Schedule of the Act have requested the Lieutenant Governor to appoint a Chairman, they do not thereby surrender their power to appoint a Chairman on the occurrence of a vacancy

2 Bill section 78—We would keep the words "through a meter" to prevent waste of water supplied for business purposes

3 Bill section 86—We would omit sub section (3) of the proposed section 349B as involving legislation beyond the scope of the present Act

ALLEGED ILLEGAL ORDER AFTER ACQUITTAL

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of Government been called to the case of Probhat Chunder Nag of Barudea, in the Dacca district, in which the said Probhat Chunder was convicted in April or May last of an offence under section 174 of the Indian Penal Code, for non-attendance in obedience to an order from a public servant, and sentenced to simple imprisonment for two weeks and a fine of Rs 200, by Babu Khetter Gopal Roy, Deputy Magistrate of Tippera, (2) whether there is any truth in the report published in the newspapers that the prosecution against Probhat Chunder was revived by the District Magistrate contrary to law, after the said Probhat Chunder had been discharged, such discharge in a summons case having the force of an acquittal, (3) whether the District Magistrate, who was not trying the case, had recorded an order to the effect that the Deputy Magistrate was not to pass final orders without letting him (the District Magistrate) know of it, (4) whether this order is to be found in the order sheet with the records of the case, and (5) whether the Deputy Magistrate before passing sentence said in open Court —

"The District Magistrate does not consider a fine to be an adequate punishment in a case like this"?

Will the Government make an enquiry into the aforesaid allegations and lay the result of such enquiry on the table?

The Hon'ble MR COTTON replied —

"The answer to the first part of the question is yes the attention of Government was drawn to the case by an article which appeared in the Bengali newspaper in September last, and an enquiry was then made into the facts

"The answer to the second part of the question is No it is not the fact that the prosecution against the person referred to was revived contrary to law

"With regard to the other questions, I have to say that the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor did not at the time consider that the matter called for further notice, and the Government is not now prepared to re-open the subject"

HARASSMENT OF VILLAGERS BY SOWARS

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Is the Government aware that, notwithstanding any action the local authorities may have taken, the mounted Sowars of the 8th Bengal Cavalry still continue to harass the people of Moheshtolah and the neighbouring villages in the 24-Parganas by cutting and taking away by force oo'oo grass, sugarcane, &c, belonging to the villagers, and that, notwithstanding the action of the local authorities, these proceedings have been repeated from year to year for some time past, and that in former years the raiyats had sometimes taken the law into their own hands?

Whether, under these circumstances, the Government will order an enquiry to be made into the truth of the above allegations, and take such action as may be deemed necessary to prevent a recurrence of these proceedings?

The Hon'ble MR COLLIER replied —

"In December last I received a petition from certain villagers that the Cavalry grass-cutters had cut some ooloo grass of theirs, this was investigated and there was reason to believe it was true I therefore communicated with the Officer Commanding the Cavalry, and he undertook to give orders preventing the recurrence of anything of the sort Since then no further complaint has been made to me, and I am not aware that any further occasion for complaint has arisen. As far as I have been able to ascertain, the petition referred to is the only complaint of the kind received from the inhabitants of the locality in question If any persons are aggrieved they must know that they will obtain redress by laying their complaint before the Officer in charge of the Sadar sub division or before myself as Magistrate of the district"

MUNICIPAL GRANTS TO ENGLISH SCHOOLS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government lay on the table a statement showing the grants made by municipalities (excluding Calcutta) to English schools in Bengal for the last five years, the grant for each year being shown separately ?

The Hon'ble MR BOURDILLON replied —

"The answer to this question will be found in columns 7, 8 and 19 of Appendix I to the Resolution on the working of the Bengal Municipalities for 1892-93, and in corresponding statements in those for previous years Those Resolutions have been published in the Government Gazette, and are obtainable by the public The figures are as follows —

	Rs
1888 89	48,360
1889 90	47,121
1890-91	51,416
1891-92	53,947
1892 93	31,480"

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT OF MUNICIPAL FUNDS

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

(a) Is it a fact that from 1884 to 1890, while the administration of the Dinajpur Municipality was in the hands of the Magistrate-Chairman, the Examiner of Local Accounts had occasion very frequently to find fault with the accounts of the Municipality, and to draw the attention of the municipal authorities to the laxity and inefficiency of supervision in respect of the accounts?

(b) Is it a fact that before and without making a thorough enquiry into the defects pointed out by the Examiner of Local Accounts, some of the documents essential to such an enquiry were destroyed as useless record, owing to which the enquiry that was instituted by the non-official administration of the Municipality in 1891 could not be carried back by the Local Auditors beyond April, 1890?

(c) Is the Government aware that as the result of this enquiry a sum of money, amounting to about Rs 1,500, has been reported by the Examiner of Local Accounts to have been embezzled by the late Tax-Daroga of the Municipality within the space of about 15 months from April, 1890, to July, 1891?

(d) Is the said Tax-Daroga now in Government service, employed in the Police Department, notwithstanding that a special Committee, appointed by the Commissioner of the Division to enquire as to his fitness to remain in Government service, recorded a finding against him, one member alone dissenting from such finding?

(e) Will the Government enquire into the above allegations and take such action as may be necessary to secure the Municipality against the loss which it has sustained?

The Hon'ble MR BOURDILLON replied —

"The Government has no information on the subjects mentioned by the hon'ble member in clauses a, b, c and d of his question. In reply to the last clause, I have to say that the Government will not order an enquiry into these matters, as the law places them within the cognisance of the Commissioner of the Division"

LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE-BRIGADE ACT, 1893, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Bengal Act I of 1893 (Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act) He said —

"It is a matter of great satisfaction that the Committee on this Bill have been able to present a unanimous report. We discussed the provisions of this amending measure very fully and carefully amongst ourselves, and I must say that it is mainly in consequence of the conciliatory attitude assumed by the Member of this Council who represents the Chamber of Commerce and the important jute interest, which is more materially affected by the provisions of the Bill, that we were able to come to so satisfactory a conclusion. The Council are aware that the necessity for amending the Licensed Warehouse and Fire-Brigade Act, which existed last year, was due to the fact that for many years past the whole cost of the fire-brigade had been borne by the jute industry in Calcutta, and not only the whole cost of the brigade, but a considerable sum besides, which was, with the permission of Government, appropriated by the Corporation of Calcutta for general municipal purposes. It was a great grievance with the jute industry that they should be so charged, and it was to relieve them of what was recognised by the Government as a legitimate grievance that Act I of 1893 was passed. The object of the Act was to apportion the burden of bearing the cost of the fire-brigade partly upon the general ratepayers, and partly upon the owners and occupiers of warehouses in which specially inflammable materials are stored. It was hoped that the law would come into force from the beginning of the year which is now drawing to a close, but there was some unavoidable delay in the Bill passing into law, and as a matter of fact, the commencement of the law dates from the 28th of June last. Therefore, it is that the jute industry is liable to pay the whole cost of the fire brigade up to that date only. But, as I explained to this Council at our last meeting, practical difficulties exist in giving effect to the intention of the Legislature, and it was found necessary to introduce the present amending Bill, which declares that the jute industry shall continue to pay, during the whole of the current year, the cost of the fire brigade, in other words, licenses will be taken out for the current year on payment of the same fees as were leviable under the old Act. The jute industry of Calcutta have met the Government in a very friendly manner on this occasion, and no objection has been raised by them to the amendment which the present Bill proposes.

"In regard to the changes introduced by the Select Committee, I need not detain this Council long. We thought it undesirable that there should be any mention in the licenses of paying by instalments. It was thought desirable that the payment of the fees should in all cases be made in advance, and as the payment of the fee is a condition under which licenses are granted, the effect of the change which the present amending Bill introduces is that the payment of the fees shall be a condition precedent to the grant of the license. This was agreed to by all members of the Select Committee as tending to facilitate administration. Then we have introduced a small amendment in section 5 of the existing Act in order to protect the interests of old warehouses, the owners or occupiers of which are entitled to obtain licenses from the Commissioners on payment of the fees prescribed. As the law stands, this privilege would be granted only to warehouses in existence at the commencement of this Act, but owing to the fact that in many instances the licenses of old warehouses have not been granted during the current year, and therefore were not in existence on the 28th June last, it was thought necessary to introduce a verbal modification into section 5 in order to protect those old warehouses and give them the privileges which the law provides. Then we have thought it proper, in order to protect the interest of the Municipal Commissioners, to suspend the repeal of section 347 of Act II of 1888 and section 261 of Act III of 1884, until the close of the current financial year. By Act I of 1893 it is not only warehouses in which jute is stored that become liable to assessment under the Fire Brigade Act, but many other commodities will be stored in warehouses for which licenses will have to be taken out under that Act. Many of these commodities are now taxed by the Commissioners under the sections of the Municipal law which empower the Commissioners to impose taxes upon obnoxious trades and dangerous professions. This power of special taxation has been withdrawn by the Fire-Brigade Act, but as the Act in regard to the assessment and levy of fees will not take effect until the 1st of April next, it was thought fair and reasonable, in the interests of the Commissioners, that they should continue to exercise the special powers they possess under the Municipal Acts for the whole of the present year.

"Lastly, the Select Committee, after considerable deliberation, agreed to omit section 23 of the Draft Bill as presented to the Council. That section, you will remember, was proposed in order to give the Government power to insist upon the Commissioners making payment of any sum due from them in the event of their default The reasons why it was thought necessary to introduce that section were explained by me at our last meeting, and these reasons, as far as they go, still exist But it was represented at our discussions that the provisions of section 64 of the Bengal Municipalities Act already sufficiently empowered the Government to insist upon Mufassal Municipalities paying in money demands due from them to the Government That undoubtedly is the case In regard to the Calcutta Municipality, the Government has, under the existing law, no such powers, and in the Bill as originally drafted that power would have been given to it But it was urged that there was no reason to suppose that the Calcutta Municipality would be likely to fail in its duty, or to neglect to make payments imposed upon it by law Now it seemed to the Committee that this was a reasonable contention to take up It is not the case that the Calcutta Municipality has ever failed to meet any pecuniary demand which has been made upon it by the Local Government, and I do not think that this Council is justified in assuming that there will be any similar default in future We were assured in Select Committee by the Hon'ble Member who represents the Municipality in this Council that there would be no risk whatever of such failure or neglect For my part I too am inclined to believe that such will never be the case, but if there be such failure or neglect, then the Government will know how to act, and it will become necessary to resort to legislation for the purpose I trust, therefore, that the Council will agree to the omission of this section from the Bill now laid before it The Select Committee considered the question very carefully, and with some hesitation it was agreed to omit it, but eventually our view on the subject was unanimous I need not trouble the Council with any further remarks in regard to this small measure I trust it will be accepted by this Council without demur and without objection, and that, as the measure is urgent, in the interests of this Municipality and in the interests of the public, it will be found possible to pass it at this meeting of the Council"

The Hon'ble MR COTTON moved that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration by the Council, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee He said —

"I have so fully discussed these clauses in the speech which I have just made in laying the Report of the Select Committee on the table that I think it unnecessary to trouble the Council with any further observations"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said —"I observe that there are no amendments on the List of Business proposed by any member with regard to any sections of the Bill Under the rules we can either discuss the Bill, clause by clause, or we can take the Bill as a whole It any hon'ble member wishes to discuss the clauses of the Bill separately or to discuss any clause in particular, I shall be prepared to meet his view, otherwise, I propose to put the motion that the Bill be passed at once There being no desire for discussion, I put the motion that the Bill as amended by the Select Committee, be passed into law"

The Motion was put and agreed to

BENGAL SANITARY DRAINAGE BILL

The Hon'ble MR LYALL moved that the Bill to facilitate the construction of drainage works for improving the sanitary condition of local areas be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble MESSRS ALLEN and COLLIER, the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, the Hon'ble MR GHOSE, the Hon'ble MAULVIS SERAJUL ISLAM and SYED FAZL IMAM, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA JAGADINDRA NATH ROY OF NATOR and the Mover

The Hon'ble MR GHOSE said —"I venture to think that this is a somewhat hasty and ill-considered measure, and that it should not be further proceeded with until ample opportunity has been given to the public to express their views on it It is a Bill which, if passed into law, would vitally affect the interests of all those who have anything to do with the land, from the zamindar down to the cultivating tenant It is proposed to throw the entire cost of these experiments upon land-holders and cultivating tenants, although it is obvious that if these drainage works be as satisfactory and beneficial as you expect them to be, their benefits will not be confined to the classes that have been singled out for taxation, but will be shared in by the general population Under these circumstances, I should have expected that some opportunity would have been given to the classes interested to submit their views to the Government before it undertook to legislate in this direction But the only prelude of the Bill was, as we were told by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, the Conference known as the Belvedere Conference, which was composed certainly of gentlemen for whom I have the highest respect, but who, with the solitary exception of Rajah Peary Mohun Mookerjee, could not be said to represent the landed interest upon which the whole burden was sought to be cast It is, therefore, quite clear that the landed classes were conspicuous by their absence from that Conference, and that the only member of their body who was present dissented then and there from the conclusions which were arrived at I think that under these circumstances they are entitled justly to complain that great issues affecting their interests have been decided virtually behind their backs and without giving them a hearing

"But be that as it may, I desire to offer one or two observations in regard to the general character of the proposals made in this Bill It provides for the carrying out of drainage works whenever the Local Government may have reason to believe that the sanitary condition of any local area may be improved by drainage I certainly gratefully appreciate, if I may be permitted to say so, the humane and beneficent object which the Government has in view, but nevertheless I shall be compelled to oppose the Bill as it stands at present No one will deny for one moment that a very virulent type of malarial fever is prevalent over large areas in Lower Bengal, and that the sanitary condition of many of those districts demands the serious attention of the Government, but we are no longer on such firm ground when we come to consider the causes which have led to a state of things which we all deplore, and the remedial measures which it may be desirable or expedient to adopt For my part I freely admit that I am convinced, so far as I am competent to form an opinion on the subject, that defective drainage, or rather obstructions to the natural drainage system of the country, are greatly responsible for the origin of this epidemic fever Any measure, therefore, which has for its object the restoration of the natural drainage system of the country must command my cordial support But this Bill is entirely silent as regards the nature of the drainage works which are in contemplation Is it surface drainage of the villages only, in which case I entirely agree, or is it subsoil drainage of the maidans, paddy-fields, and bheels? Do you intend to act upon the lines indicated by the late Rajah Degambur Mitter, and to maintain unimpaired and unobstructed the natural drainage system of the Gangetic delta, from the villages to the arable lands, from paddy-fields to bheels, and from the bheels through khalls and water-courses to the navigable rivers which are their natural outfall That was the position of the late Rajah Degambur Mitter, his theory was at the time very strongly combated and opposed by professional experts, but it is the only theory which at the present time holds the field, and if the Government contemplate nothing further than that, then I venture to say not a single voice will be raised against the proposal But, as I have said, this Bill is very vague, it gives the Council no idea as to the nature of the schemes which may be carried out under it

"There are other schemes of a less desirable character which may be covered by this Bill Is it intended, for instance, to give effect to the recommendations of Mr Adley in 1869, upon which the Government of the day placed considerable reliance when legislating on the subject in 1871 and in 1880, is it intended to follow up those recommendations and to embark upon such gigantic, costly, unpractical and mischievous enterprises as the subsoil drainage of maidans, paddy-fields and swamps, of which there are so many in every district in Bengal, which have existed ever since the formation of the Gangetic delta, and which throughout all these centuries have never produced the results which were attributed to them. No doubt there must be a certain amount of unhealthiness in certain seasons of the year in a country like Lower Bengal, hon'ble members are aware that almost the whole of Lower Bengal is more or less a swamp dotted and interspersed with villages lying upon comparatively higher ground, and that some unhealthiness should prevail in such a country immediately after the close of the rains is one of those normal climatic conditions from which there is absolutely no escape The resources of science cannot succeed in altering the immutable laws of nature, nor can any amount of engineering skill succeed in transforming the climate of Bengal into anything like that of Europe I am fully prepared to concede that the present Government has no such Quixotic scheme in view, but if this Bill is passed in its present form, what is there to prevent any future administration from giving effect to such recommendations? It is difficult to see, it is impossible to predict what the sanitary fad of the future may be You have tried many experiments in the past, and all those experiments have signally failed For a number of years you waged a ceaseless war against jungle, shrubs, bamboo topes, aquatic plants, tanks and bheels, and what has been the result of all that misdirected energy? Total, dismal failure! While you succeeded in causing an indefinite amount of hardship and annoyance to the people, and serious mischief in some cases, such as the removal of aquatic plants from tanks and bheels, as has been tardily acknowledged by medical experts History has a tendency to repeat itself, and I am, therefore, reluctant to support a vague enactment of this kind under which it may be open to any future administration to embark upon a series of costly enterprises fruitful not of benefit, but of mischief on the recommendation of some over-zealous district officer or some engineer burning to distinguish himself, more especially when I observe that it is proposed to throw the entire burden of the cost of the scheme upon the land-holders and raiyats who are to have no voice in the matter, while the Government do not propose to make any contribution towards the expense

"There is another point in connection with this matter to which I wish to draw attention There is absolutely no provision in the Bill so far as I have been able to see, giving any voice or option whatever to the holders of estates or raiyats, or a majority of them Now I find that in the previous legislation on the subject, to which I have referred in another connection, namely, the first Drainage Act which was passed in the year 1871 (Act V), no action could be taken under the Act unless at least a moiety of proprietors concerned had signified their assent Again, in the year 1880, in Act VI of that year, it was expressly provided that the Drainage Commissioners were to obtain the assent in writing of one-half of the holders of estates before adopting any such scheme No such provision is made in this Bill All that it provides for is this, that the previous assent of the District Board is required That, I submit, most respectfully is a different thing altogether The District Board may consist wholly or largely of nominated members, and it may not represent the raiyats or land-holders of the area concerned On these grounds, I believe that the absence of any option to the whole area is a distinctly backward and retrograde step

"I shall say one word more, and that is in reference to the financial proposals contained in the Bill

"These proposals in regard to taxation seem to me, if I may say so respectfully, to be altogether unsound and indefensible Before proceeding further, I would ask your Honour's permission to read a short extract from the Appendix to the Report of the Epidemic Commission, which gives facts as to these obstructions.

"The Report says —

'The obstructions appear to have arisen chiefly from roads, and partly from embankments thrown up across khals for the purpose of fisheries In like manner, the Eastern Bengal Railway and its feeders, when the same have crossed the water courses of the villages lying on the eastern bank of the river Hooghly, and of others more inland, but situated to the west of the lines, have obstructed the drainage of those places, the fall of the villages lying on the eastern bank of the Hooghly, as I have before observed, being towards the east, and consequently Chogdah, Kanchrapara, Halisohur, and many similarly situated have suffered I may here remark that the face of the country being perfectly flat, the drainage runs over the whole surface towards the direction of its slope, and consequently roads running transversely to it must of necessity intercept the drainage But the East Indian and Eastern

Bengal Railways are provided with capacious viaducts, wherever they have crossed, what appeared to the eye as water-courses, but these are in reality khals and other large streams which, as I have already observed, received the drainage in its flow from the villages over paddy-fields and bheels'
